BOY SCOUTS' EXHIBITION REVOLUTION IN TEXAS

Interesting Folder Distributed by Fish and Game Commission at Harvard Stadium Today

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 17.—In connection with the exhibition to be given by the Boy Scouts of America in the Harvard Stadium today, the commissioners on fisheries and game for Massachusetts have prepared an exhibit of live fish and birds together with photographs and other specimens of an interesting nature chiefly for the instruction of the Boy Scouts themselves, and with the purpose of bringing to the attention of the public the close connection existing between the operation of the Scouts and the work of the fish and game department.

The commissioners have prepared for distribution to the Scouts a folder emphasizing certain essential points which they deem should be carefully observed, which contains the following suggestions:

Report all violations of the fish and game laws to the regular deputy-commissioner in your district, or to the fish and game commission, state house, Boston. All reports will be considered strictly confidential.

Train yourself to observe conditions when passing through the woods. There is always something new to learn. Be sure you will always be pleased to have a report of what you see.

Encourage your associates to "follow your lead" in observation and protection. Learn to identify the birds.

Feed the birds during the severe winter weather. We will be pleased to give directions and supply grain upon request.

Don't allow anyone to tamper with the nests, eggs or young of birds. Every bird saved is an asset to the community.

If you find any broken-up nests or young game birds in helpless condition, notify us at once.

Aid in every possible way to prevent forest fires. The woods are invaluable as watersheds and their preservation is a necessity for future generations.

Don't build large fires. If you must have a fire, let it be a small one. Guard it carefully, and when through see that it is thoroughly wet down or sanded. In some communities there are strict laws regarding the lighting of fires in the woods, and you should make yourself acquainted with these requirements.

Should you discover a fire, notify the nearest town forest warden. Every acre burned over means that much less protection and feed for wild life.

Don't be careless with firearms. Never point a gun at a human being. Don't carry loaded weapons into a house, vehicle or boat. Failure to observe this may cause you life-long regret.

Don't shoot until you are sure of what you are shooting at. A moment's hesitation may save the life of your best friend.

Don't take small fish when angling. Let them have a chance to attain a reasonable size.

Don't keep on fishing just because the fish will bite. There other days and other people to consider.

We have great faith in the Boy Scouts, and we congratulate you on the thoroughness of your organization, and we are proud of the standards which you have set before the boys of all the world.

We wish you success in all your efforts.

Yours for more fish and more game.

"If this strike of trainmen is carried out our company will require engineers, firemen, conductors, passengers and freight brakemen.

"Those of you who feel and believe with the management that the strike of the trainmen is a thing of the past, willing to volunteer their services to assist the company in doing its duty to the public, to the stockholders and to loyal and faithful employees, will send their names to their immediate superior officers stating for what service they volunteer."

APPEALS TO EMPLOYEES

Head of Penn. R. R. Asks Men to Continue Loyalty and Calls for Volunteers in Event of Strike

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—General Manager S. C. Long of the Pennsylvania railroad today appealed to the 146,000 employees of the company's system in a public appeal for the continuance of their loyalty and calling for volunteers to maintain the service in the event of a trainmen's strike. The appeal, after reciting the disagreement at the recent conference at New York between the general managers of the railroads of the United States and the presidents of the four trainmen's organizations and stating that a strike ballot is being taken by the employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., says in part:

"The total cessation of train movement will result in stopping work in all departments, with consequent loss of earnings to all employees.

WHAT THE COOK SAYS

Cook says now is the time to attend to small details about the house. The cellar, of course, cannot be thoroughly cleaned until the furnace is allowed to go out for the season, but it can be cleaned of all rubbish. The cellar should be the most orderly part of the house, partly because an accumulation of rubbish there increases danger of fire and partly because the air from the cellar rises through the house, carrying with it dust or any other uncleanliness.

A door is banged back with the key left in the lock. The result is a disagreeable hole in the wall. To mend that, get two cents worth of plaster of paris, make into a paste, fill the hole, smooth carefully, and when dry paper or tint it over. For the better of the paint, in many houses there are often left old lengths of wallpaper, and these should be carefully preserved. Damage may be done when moving in, or later, a chair may get pushed roughly against a wall, and there is a bad tear.

Get a piece of paper, scallop the edges quite roughly and paste it over the place. The mend will be unnoticeable. But if the house is not new and the paper has faded the contrast is startling. In that case put a piece of the spare wallpaper on the door in the sun for two or three days. Dampen it occasionally. All that is needed is exposure.

If a ceiling is badly blackened by a lamp or gas jet in just one place apply a layer of starch and water with a piece of clean flannel. The starch will act as a cleanser and the water will wash off the dirt and the spots will come with it.

Cook serves salt fish often as the appetite seems to add a zest to the food. Soak one-half pound nice salt codfish overnight in cold water. Pick up into small bits and be careful to take out every bone. Put one quart milk on to scald, add a cup of celery cut up in small pieces, the codfish, a dash of paprika, a little pepper and a little flour, first wet in a little cold water to thicken the gravy. Serve on buttered crackers. I sometimes make this in the chafing dish.

Soak half a pound of salt codfish over night in cold water. Pick into small pieces. Have ready three hard-boiled eggs, slice them into thin slices. Cut the eggs in halves lengthwise, spread one-half of each egg lightly with anchovy paste, then dust with paprika and press the halves together. Lay them on a shallow buttered plate, pour around them some of the tomato sauce and set in the oven to heat for a few minutes; when they are hot, have ready the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs that have had a teaspoon of sugar and a few drops of lemon juice added during the beating, drop a heaping tablespoonful of this top of each egg and delicately brown in the oven. Serve at once.

eggs and the codfish. Add salt, pepper and paprika and form into croquettes. Cook in pork fat or in olive oil. Serve with mashed potatoes, drawn butter sauce and peas.

Cook says mayonnaise that has curdled can usually be brought back again by adding it in spoonfuls to a beaten egg yolk, having the yolk both fresh and freshly beaten, and beating the mixture after each additional spoonful.

In the first place, the eggs must be fresh, and in the second place, the oil must be about the temperature of the room in which it is served. Third, the oil must not be added too rapidly at the start. Never use congealed oil; even too cold an oil is apt to produce curdling. Again, one must guard against an excess of oil in proportion to the number of yolks of eggs. The right proportion is two or three half ounces of oil to each egg. One may use three ounces of oil if the dressing is served immediately.

In any mayonnaise, never add onion juice when the dressing is to be used for fruit salad; if vinegar is replaced by lemon juice, a whiter dressing is obtained.

Dents in furniture can be mended quite easily. Dampen the dent with warm water, then make a pad of brown paper six inches square, dampen that thoroughly, lay it on the dent. In some woods, the process is slow, but it is sure.

Stained borders, which look worse than ever when the rest of the room has been cleaned and freshened, can be darkened by being rubbed with kerosene. Then a polish with beeswax and turpentine will make them look like new.

If you have a damp cupboard against the outside wall "mend" it by the simple expedient of placing in it a box of lime. The lime absorbs all the moisture, and the cupboard will be perfectly dry.

Smoky fires discolor marble mantelpieces dreadfully. One that has been smoked in this way can be cleaned with a solution of chloride of lime. Lay the cloth on the mantel, spread one-half of each egg lightly with anchovy paste, then dust with paprika and press the halves together. Lay them on a shallow buttered plate, pour around them some of the tomato sauce and set in the oven to heat for a few minutes; when they are hot, have ready the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs that have had a teaspoon of sugar and a few drops of lemon juice added during the beating, drop a heaping tablespoonful of this top of each egg and delicately brown in the oven. Serve at once.

Cook wishes you to try these:—

SALE OF FIREWORKS
MANY LICENSES ISSUED BY FIRE DEPT. OFFICIALS—THE LAW ON THE MATTER

Commissioner Newell P. Putnam and Chief Edward E. Saunders of the fire department have been kept busy during the past few days issuing permits and inspecting places where applications for permits to sell fireworks have been made. Up to the present time permits have been issued to about 125 applicants, 35 having been granted as follows:

The permits granted give the retail dealer the license to keep for the sale fireworks from June 10 to July 10, it being covered under Section 41 of Chapter 7 of the regulations passed on fireworks and firecrackers in 1913, which read as follows:

Section 41. From June 10 to July 10 in every year a permit may be granted to keep for sale at retail fireworks and firecrackers in a building in the following amounts: (a) of common fireworks, as defined in section 1 (a) of these regulations, not more than 300 pounds; (b) of fireworks, as defined in section 1 (b) of these regulations, not more than 15 pounds at any one time may be kept; this shall not include the small firecrackers of which 100 boxes, each box containing not more than 2400 shot firecrackers, may be kept; nor the toy torpedoes, of which 50 may be kept; nor the toy paper cap, of which 25 cases may be kept.

NO LONGER SOUGHT FOR BY MANAGERS—TOO MANY GOOD SOUTHPAW PITCHERS

Five years ago there was a wild scramble among major league managers for left-handed batters, this condition being brought about by the terrific hitting of Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins, Frank Baker, Larry Doyle, Jake Daubert and other left-handed batters. It was just a few years before this that the managers had reasoned out that a left-handed batter had two steps' advantage in getting to first base, and therefore got many hits on infield grounders on which a man with the same speed, billing from the right side of the plate, would have thrown out.

For several years the scouts brought in every fast left-handed batter they could find with a 300 minor league average. The result is apparent now. They major leagues are overloaded with left-handed batters, while the clean, free right-handed hitters who are the backbone of the game are a thing of the past. There are still many in the major leagues, but the majority were here before the left-handed craze hit the managers.

HUGHES AT WASHINGTON

MAKES PLANS FOR MOVING HIS FAMILY TO SUMMER HOME—RECEIVED CALLERS TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Charles E. Hughes, republican presidential candidate, who returned to his home here last night from New York, spent most of today making preparations for moving his family to a summer home here. He is expected to leave for his campaign trip. He received some political callers and many personal friends, who dropped in to offer their congratulations.

Mr. Hughes told the newspapermen he had nothing to say on political affairs.

71 INDICTED FOR ARSON

DIST. ATTY. PELLETIER MAKES STATEMENT ON PREVALENCE OF INCENDIARY FIRES

BOSTON, June 17.—The grand jury, which for six months had given consideration to the prevalence of incendiary fires, today after authorizing a statement by Dist. Atty. Pelletier that "the many fires in and about this city have been started by comparatively few individuals, some of whom would appear to be in close touch, if not in absolute collusion."

Seventy-one indictments for arson or similar offenses were returned today. There have been some so-called professional independent insurance adjusters who knew, or ought to have known, that fraud was being perpetrated, the statement adds. "It would seem that a very small percentage of the fires was due to so-called 'thugs' who want the excitement of watching a conflagration. On the other hand a very large number were due to the fact that there are men, who for a stated amount, will arrange and produce a fire in the most approved and scientific manner."

Assenting that over-insurance is the main cause of arson, the statement recommended the cancellation of policies after suspicious fires and consideration of further safeguards by the legislature and the public.

"The percentage of his beats out because of the left-handed advantage is so small that it is not worth bothering about. Ball games are not won on infield hits, although I will admit that they help at times. I need a few good minor leaguers this year, but if the best are left-handed hitters they can stay where they are. Give me a right-handed hitter with the freewheeling bat, and I'll take my chance on that two-step advantage."

"There are too many good southpaw pitchers coming up to bother with left-handed hitters. Mark my words, they have seen their day, and as Cobb, etc. start slipping there will not be any coming along to take their place, and I'll take my chance on that two-step advantage."

at Monterey and one of the two remaining American consuls in Mexico, accompanied by half a dozen other Americans arrived here today. He was reticent as to the object of his visit.

AMERICAN CONSULS
ORDERED TO LEAVE MEXICO
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 17.—The arrival at Laredo today of Philip Hanna, consul-general at Monterey developed the fact that the state department ordered both him and J. R. Sullivan, consul at San Antonio, to the border side of the river.

The withdrawal of these two consular officers will leave the American government with no consular representatives at interior points in Mexico, except an agent at Mexico City.

REPORTED RAID DID NOT MATERIALIZE

LAREDO, Tex., June 17.—Due probably to the vigilance of Texas Rangers and the military patrol, the reported raid by Mexican bandits at Laredo today did not materialize, according to reports to Gen. Mann, commanding the border patrol here. Rangers and armed civilians aided the military in guarding that part of the border where bandits were seen approaching last night.

There is an undecurrent of unrest, according to reliable reports here, among the Mexican civilians and soldiers in the territory between Monterey and Nuevo Laredo. It is believed that the Carranza government has given orders that if American soldiers enter those sections of Mexican territory not already occupied by Mexican troops it would be considered an act of war, and the Mexicans have orders to give battle.

FUNSTON NOTIFIES WAR DEPARTMENT OF WARNING

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Gen. Funston advised the war department today that he was informed by Gen. Bell at El Paso, that Gen. Pershing had been ordered by Gen. Trevino, the Carranza commander at Chihuahua, that any movement of the American expedition to the south, west or east, would be a signal for an attack by the Mexican forces.

No word has come so far from Gen. Pershing himself, but even before the arrival of Gen. Funston's message department officials were inclined to credit newspaper despatches telling of the Trevino warning. Preparations have been made for any eventuality, and Pershing is ready to deal with any force that may be sent against him. It is probable, however, that he will hold to his present line, and make no move to precipitate hostilities.

Gen. Funston reported also that Maj. Gray of the 14th cavalry, commanding the two troops attacked by Mexicans at San Ignacio, Tex., recently had received an order to pick up the trail of the bandits. The cavalry rode some distance down the American side of the river, crossed to the Mexican side on reports that a bandit mobilization was in progress, turned north again on the Mexican side for several miles and crossed into American territory without having encountered any outlaws or finding a trail.

Two additional prisoners were captured on the American side and the body of another dead Mexican was found in the brush near the scene of the attack.

TWO PERSONS DROWNED

Property Damage of $150,000 Caused by Overflow of River at Hornell, N. Y.

HORNELL, N. Y., June 17.—Two persons were drowned and property damage estimated at $150,000, was caused by the overflow of Canisteo river early today following a succession of cloudbursts within a radius of 20 miles of Hornell.

An automobile in which Mrs. John M. Saxton and her son were riding was overturned by a sudden rush of water from the overflowed creek and in which Petro Head and Levi Madison lived on the bank of Canisteo creek, a tributary of the Canisteo, was carried away. Head was drowned but Madison was rescued four miles down stream. Mrs. Hugh Stephens, who also was caught in the flood and reported drowned, managed to keep afloat until she was carried into shallow water.

Maj. Gray reported he had received assurances of co-operation from Carranza military commanders across the line. The Mexican officers said they had captured 20 men believed to have been engaged in the attack on the American camp.

The American commander said he believed the band had been broken up, and that no further activities were to be expected from that particular force.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

GOV. McCALL TAKES POINTED EXCEPTION TO STATEMENT MADE BY FORMER COM. GOW

BOSTON, June 17.—Governor McCall, formally accepting last night the resignation of Charles R. Gow as a member of the licensing board for the city of Boston, took pointed exception to a statement made by Mr. Gow that the governor's disapproval of "independent thought and action" in the official conduct of the board.

In his letter of acceptance Governor McCall said to Mr. Gow: "Permit me to say, however, that I cannot recognize the validity of your assumption that my appointment of Mr. Roney in place of Mr. Woods can be accepted in any degree as evidence that I disapprove of independence of thought and action on the part of public officers."

COUNTRY WEEK FUND

Those who are always glad to help along the work of the Country Week committee are reminded that subscriptions should be sent promptly to the treasurer, Mr. J. A. Munneville, 29 Market street as they are, however, once if the committee of giving tired mothers and little children a vacation is to be started on time this season.

For the convenience of those who wish to give small sums, a box has been placed in the store of the D. L. Page Co., in Merrimack square.

THE BUILDING OPERATIONS

Permits for Many Buildings Issued
—Great Activity Throughout the City—Transactions of Week

Work on the construction of the new St. Louis church in West Sixth and St. Louis streets is progressing, but not as if the weather were favorable. The excavation is completed and work on the foundation has been started.

The workmen have been handicapped to some extent by the rain during the past two or three weeks, but nevertheless they hustled along and managed to complete the excavation. Several men are now at work on cleaning the old bricks that were purchased from the Tremont & Suffolk and also from the demolitioners on the high school site, to be used for backing purposes.

Plans for this year call for the erection of a basement only and the material to be used will be brick and cement. It is expected that the new church will be ready for occupancy some time in the fall or about Christmas.

Plans are being made for the erection of a score or more of new houses in South Lowell at close proximity to the new plant of the United States Cartridge Co. In order to be near the factory a number of employees of the shops have erected camps in which they expect to spend the summer with their families, but it is said that these shacks will soon be replaced by modern up-to-date dwelling houses. There is plenty of land in the district and an excellent opportunity for a live wire in the building line.

An eight-room house with modern equipment is being erected at 273 Rogers street by the heirs of E. A. Smith. The building will be 26 by 30 feet and 2½ stories in height. A fireplace is to be built in the living room, and the cost of the building will be about $2800.

Jerome Gaudette has started work on the erection of a two-tenement house at 340-350 Lakeview avenue. The house will be 25 by 50 feet and two stories in height. Two large piazzas are to be placed on the building and each tenement will contain six rooms with pantry and bath. The cost will be about $3100.

Two cottages are now being constructed at 42 and 46 Pentucket avenue by C. Brooks Stevens. The building at No. 42 will have eight rooms with pantry and bath and will be 25 by 33½ feet. The other will also be of eight rooms with pantry and bath and the cost of both will be about $5600.

A two-tenement house and a cottage are being constructed by John S. Drodie at 179, 183 and 185 Powell street. The tenements in the two apartment house will contain five rooms each with pantry and bath, while the cottage will have six rooms with pantry and bath. The cost of the two will be about $5200.

Guy F. Cochran has started work on the erection of an eight-room cottage with pantry and bath at 806 Stevens street. The dimensions of the building are 30 by 30 feet and the cost will be about $3000.

A $2200 house is being erected at 20 Hawthorne street by Vida S. Walker. The house will have five rooms, reception hall, sleeping porch and pantry and bath. It will be of the semi-bungalow type.

Russell & French have started work on the erection of two cottages at 64 and 68 Temple street. Each house will have six rooms, hall, pantry and bath and both will cost $4600.

An eight-room house with pantry and bath is being erected at 74 Hoyt avenue by Charles P. Witham. The building will be 25 by 30 feet and the cost will be $2500.

Joseph A. Claus has started work on extensive alterations and changes to his property in Third street. The house, which now contains 10 rooms is being converted into a two-tenement dwelling at a cost of $1200.

A 16 by 25 feet addition is being built to the boiler plant of the Lowell Electric Light Corp. in Perry street.

The Hamilton Mfg. Co. started work on the erection of a dust house in Jackson street. The building will be one story in height, 48 by 14 feet and will cost about $1800.

Francis Dugale is having a concrete garage constructed in the rear of his home, 71 Dalton street at a cost of $200.

An eight by twelve feet and one story addition is being erected to the property of Philip Gruber at 57 Corbett street. This will be used for a shed and pantry and it will cost about $200.

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the construction of the four-room addition to the Collinsville school, the members of the Dracut school board, which was held last night, the contract for the said addition was awarded to the Burton H. Wiggin Co. of this city, the bid of this firm being $14,153. The addition will be built on the front of the present building and the work will be pushed to a rapid completion. James Allen of Lawrence is the contractor.

THE SPELLBINDER

A final word about Wednesday evening's parade.

Lowell's Preparedness parade has been the greatest in this country up to date, and probably the greatest that will be held in any city.

This fact is easily demonstrated by the statistical figures. In Lowell, assuming the population to be 110,000, which is more than the last census gave us, there are approximately one parader to every seven of the population.

Greater New York with a population of 5,006,480 had 150,000 persons in line, or approximately one parader for every 33 of the population.

Boston has a population of 725,533, and its Preparedness parade took in the volunteers from all over the state, the total number being 42,000, or approximately one parader to every 17 of the population. Providence with a population of 247,660 had in the vicinity of 25,000.

Thus it will be seen that the outpouring of the people of Lowell in response to Mayor O'Donnell's call was the greatest, comparatively, that any city has as yet presented.

And with one in every seven parading, and the other six viewing them, together with several thousands from out of town, what were the results?

There were no accidents.
There were no fires.
There were no cases of picked pockets reported.
There were no cases of burglary or of house thievery reported.
There were but three arrests for drunkenness throughout the day and evening.

And the parade didn't cost the city one dollar!

Surely Lowell is a safe, sane, moral, orderly and patriotic community, despite what its critics, daily or weekly, may say to the contrary, and the demonstration of Wednesday evening, emphatically gave the lie to the city's traducers.

Echoes of the Parade

Since the parade many have been heard from who state that they would have been glad to contribute to the fund to defray the expenses of the parade had any time to solicit funds. There was no time to solicit funds, and members of the committee themselves, and announcement was made that Mr. Sawyer would be treasurer of the fund. It was estimated that about $800 would be necessary and that was all the committee desired to raise. Practically all of the subscriptions were voluntary, and much more could have been raised had the committee sent out solicitors. The committee acted on the principle of "small favors thickly received; larger ones in proportion" and when a well known citizen after announcing that he would supply the women's division with a band at his own expense, modified it by sending the committee $10, the contribution was accepted in lieu of the band.

It takes an event like that of Wednesday to demonstrate clearly that they're not all dead yet; meaning by "they" those who ask such questions as to merit a name which is good book forbids one to apply to his brother under the penalty of excessive heat, hereafter. On Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock with the sun shining brightly, the streets crowded with expectant citizens and everybody connected with the parade on the jump, the telephone bell in the mayor's office rang, and a voice inquired:

"Is this the headquarters of the parade committee?"

"Yes," was the answer.

"Well, say, is there going to be a parade tonight?"

Exactly at 7:40 o'clock, five minutes before the start of the parade the telephone rang and a voice said:

"Can you tell me what streets the parade is going through?"

Upon being informed, the voice came back as follows:

"Where would you advise me to go, to get a good view of it?"

Wednesday afternoon, the telephone bell rang and a voice with an unmistakable dialect said:

"Ware vill I go to put my vogan in de parade?"

"Wagons are not allowed in this parade," was the reply.

"For why? For why, I can't put my vogan in de parade to advertise my neediness? I pay my taxes chust like de other fellows."

"There will be no advertising in the parade. It is not permitted," he was told.

"Och, och, no advertisin'! Und I read on de morrow newspaper, he's goin' to Sagel-Lowell feller, he's goin' to advertise one thousand mens and a balloon, and dose fellows dat make de bullets on de Cartridge shop dere goin' to have de whole fam'ly to advertise dere peeziness, und I'm a liddle feller und I can't advertise nothings. You think dat's right und it?"

The city of Lawrence has selected

July 4th as the date of its Preparedness parade, and without attempting to disparage the down-river brethren, I venture the assertion that they'll have to go some to even approach the Lowell event.

Correcting a False Impression

"Gee, those telephone girls are dead slow," was frequently heard, when the break came in the parade. But it was not their fault. There was a slipup in giving them their instructions to start.

No, the telephone girls are all right.

Just Plain "Me"

Once upon a time, so the story goes, an alleged crook was taken in by the local police for a petty larceny, but his actions indicated that he was a slick article and probably with a record.

Though none of the local men could identify him. As some of the head-quarters men were discussing their capture, one of the real sleuths of the department entered, and upon learning of the arrest, went into the cell-corridor to give the culprit the once over.

Returning to the office, the sleuth exclaimed, in very positive manner:

"That fellow is a stranger, superintendant; he's never been around Lowell."

"How do you know?" inquired the superintendant.

"Why, he doesn't know me," was the reply.

I recalled the story yesterday morning upon reading the following from the Political Straws column of the Courier-Citizen:

"Hon. Eugene N. Foss, former governor of this state, met me just after the republicans had nominated Hughes and the progressives, Roosevelt, and said: 'The colonel will be wise not to accept the nomination as many votes as he did four years ago. The public felt then that the republicans had ill-treated him and his vote was given on that issue.'"

It was the same in my own case. As I was about the public felt that I was abused, they elected me; and after that I lost my pull."

Exaggerated "me"? Perish the thought!

Hospital Rates Increased

The increase in the cost to the city of ward patients at St. John's hospital as announced in the press this week is not surprising, for it has been anticipated for some time, and cannot be considered unreasonable under the existing conditions. For some time past the city has been paying $10 per week for its cases in the Boston city hospital, and for the past two years the Worcester hospital has been charging $12 a week, having increased from $10. Some of the hospitals in ward cases. The minimum has been $7 per week but nearly all have put up their prices on account of the great increase in the price of drugs, medicines and sick room supplies, to say nothing of the increase in the cost of business has felt the effect of war prices so keenly as the drug business, and of course each hospital has a completely equipped drug store of its own. And it would appear that the drugs and medicines that are most needed by the war, in some cases substitutes have appeared on the market, but even the prices of these are high proportionately.

A New Traffic Officer

Impressed by the need of a permanent traffic officer at the corner of Market and Central streets, Mayor O'Donnell has had the post filled and assigned to John White, who has been in the position for some time.

For some time past the post has been open and different officers, including the sergeants have taken their turn at directing traffic at this busy point. Henceforth Officer Whelan will be on the job regularly and the place will be well taken care of. The assignment of patrolmen to look after traffic exclusively, is a comparatively new feature of police work but it has grown enormously since its establishment. Even the smallest cities have their traffic squads today, and they do excellent work. Lowell needs more traffic officers and will get them as soon as the finances of the department will permit.

SUFFRAGISTS' STRIKING TABLEAU TO IMPRESS ST. LOUIS DELEGATES

SUFFRAGE DEMONSTRATION IN ST. LOUIS

One of the most striking and interesting features of the woman suffrage demonstration in St. Louis during the democratic national convention was the tableau on the steps of the old Art museum at Nineteenth and Locust streets. Mrs. David O'Neil was Liberty in the tableau. A tall, handsome woman, she made a striking figure as she stood all in white bearing a torch high about her head. On the steps below stood the women who represented the twelve states where women have full suffrage, and others who represented Australia and Canada. White and blue Greek costumes were worn, and each participant bore the shield of her state. Further down on the steps were the representatives of states where women have won partial enfranchisement. They wore gray gowns and carried bronze shields. On the lowest steps were those who appeared in black gowns for those states where women have no vote at all. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, reformer, suffrage leader, was conspicuous near the head of the staircase.

visement and the decision will be announced later. Col. Craighill's staff was also present.

City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy, Consulting Engineer Benjamin H. Davis, Chairman John J. Donovan and Members John O. Battershill and Hon. Jos. J. Flynn of the Central bridge commission of Lawrence spoke in favor of the petition. President Mardon and Secretary Murphy of Lowell board of trade and Cong. John Jacob Rogers spoke in opposition, but after hearing the arguments of City Solicitor Murphy of Lawrence they withdrew all opposition.

Engineer Davis was the chief speaker and he outlined the bridge plans.

Col. Craighill then called upon any speakers who were opposed and the three Lowell men spoke. Their chief opposition was based on arguments as to its possible interference with the Merrimack river navigation plans for the Merrimack river.

City Solicitor Murphy was then called upon and he gave a lengthy and forceful argument in favor of the petition. He said that it was in accordance with the wishes of the people of Lawrence and had the endorsement of the mayor and city government. City Solicitor Murphy also said that in addition to having been endorsed by the Central bridge commission and Massachusetts harbor and public lands commission it was also approved by an act of the legislature. He offset the arguments of the opposition by stating that Lawrence has agreed to replace the concrete span with a steel draw any time that it is necessary and is requested. He also pointed out the unnecessary and burdensome expense of having the draw machinery in the bridge when it might not be used for years. He also said that if the opposition insisted on taking that stand that it might cause dissatisfaction among the friends of the Merrimack river navigation scheme outside of Lowell.

In closing he informed Col. Craighill that he spoke in favor of the petition. Members Battershill and Flynn of the Central bridge commission also spoke in favor of the petition.

The Central bridge plans were produced at the meeting and were gone into thoroughly.

Engineer Craighill and representatives of the Essex company were also present at the meeting.

CONG. DOREMUS BUSY TO MANAGE CAMPAIGN

HEAD OF THE DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

REPRESENTATIVE DOREMUS

Election of the president, of course, occupies the major portion of the public mind, but the statesmen and politicians do not forget that an entire national house of representatives and thirty-three United States senators will be elected this fall. One of the most active men in the congressional campaign will be Representative Frank E. Doremus of Michigan, head of the democratic congressional campaign committee.

AT HOLY CROSS

The following Lowell boys have been elected to office at Holy Cross college: John McAdon, assistant manager of baseball team for 1917; John McNamara, vice president of Athletic association.

MCCORMICK SELECTED BY PRES. WILSON AS CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEE

VANCE C. MCCORMICK

Vance C. McCormick, President Wilson's choice for chairman of the democratic national committee and manager of the campaign, was born in Harrisburg, Pa., on June 18, 1872. Of Scotch-Irish ancestry, he loves a fight and has been fighting in sports, civil reform and party reform in Pennsylvania for a score of years. Soon after he left Yale, where he made fame as a football player and in 1892 was captain of the team, he was elected to the common council of Harrisburg, and at the age of twenty-nine was chosen mayor. He is known as "the best mayor Harrisburg ever had," even by those politically opposed to him. Mr. McCormick is wealthy and extensively interested in agricultural development. He succeeded William H. Taft as a trustee of Yale and is chairman of the athletic reorganization committee of that university. Mr. McCormick is a director of the federal reserve board, Philadelphia district, but will resign.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Very often the mother, bent on training her child in the very best way, overlooks what is right before her eyes in straining her vision into the distance. She looks to the future, forgetting that in the present she is laying the foundation for that future.

For instance, when her baby is still in her arms, in the earliest days of its infancy, she should begin to teach it good habits, for it is at this stage of life, before any counter-influences are at work, even those of personality, that things are learned with the greatest possible ease.

It is not fair to dandle and play with a baby continuously while it is small and light and easy to manage, and then suddenly expect it to manage without attentions. Just so in everything. Try not to form habits which are apt to be broken quickly or rather, always avoid sudden changes for the baby.

How often we lose our tempers and yet expect our children not to? Why is it we do not consider that a child is sometimes ignorant of wrong? Why is it that we do not look into the matter as to why a child did a certain act?

Never severely punish a child for doing a thing which he has never been told not to do. Study the disposition of your children as each requires a different handling. Explain a thing to a child and don't scold or slap and not be sure that they hear what you say. Keep their little minds occupied and give them something to do; something interesting, something they can accomplish.

Boys like saws, nails, hammer and some half-inch boards. Some boys like to sew, piece blocks, embroider and crochet. Girls like to cook and bake things, tiny buns, cakes, cookies and pies.

If it is necessary for a child to take a lunch to school, see that it is different each day as well as dainty and pleasing in appearance. Here are a few suggestions for luncheons: White bread with quince marmalade. Fifteen filberts. One orange.—Boston brown bread with pimento cheese. Ten dates stoned and rolled in sugar.—Biscuits with sardines and lettuce. One frosted cup cake.—White bread with chopped nuts. One cruller.

Eight small crisp crackers with peanut butter. Four stuffed prunes.—Graham bread with cold chicken. Twelve English walnut meats.—White bread with currant jelly. White grapes with marshmallows. One slice of Graham and one slice of white bread spread with blackberry jelly. One apple.—White bread with crisp bacon. One celery heart. Two chocolate marshmallows.

Graham biscuits with bits of cold thin-sliced steak. One one-half-inch slice of ham. One slice of cold turkey. One slice of cold beef. One slice of cold chicken. One slice of cold fish. One slice of cold lamb. One banana.—Rye flour

American dairy cheese. Four stuffed prunes.

Milk is such a splendid thing for children, whether old or young, that it is a great pity when they are five or six. Quite often it can be disguised so that the child does not rebel. Sometimes egg poached in milk, served on toast softened with milk and with a spoonful of thickened milk poured over it, will often be eaten with eagerness by a child who refuses milk as a beverage. The same is true of cream soups, which, in their simplest nursery forms are merely heated milk with the addition of vegetable puree.

Creamed chicken and creamed flaked fish are both approved for the child's dinner and in vegetables wherever butter would be used by adults substitute cream or milk.

Weak cocoa made entirely of milk and with only sufficient cocoa for mild flavoring and coloring, is one of the simplest and most acceptable ways of disguising milk.

Another good way is to cook the cereal in milk instead of water, or, if preferred, the cereal can be partly cooked in water first and the milk added afterward. If cooked entirely in milk a longer time must be allowed, as cereals do not absorb the moisture from milk as rapidly as from clear water.

It is a crime to willfully expose children to disease because of the belief that they will eventually fall a victim to it. The old idea that the diseases of children are doubly serious to an adult is untrue. An occasional mild case of disease in one instance may be responsible for a serious and fatal illness from this same disease if it is communicated to another.

Parents in particular will often assume the responsibility in exposing their own and other people's children which would make them shudder if they appreciated the true seriousness of it.

Measles, whooping cough and a number of the common ailments of childhood are only looked upon as inevitable by people who are ignorant of the dangers of these diseases and the possibility of avoiding them.

Why should not boys and girls have their own allowance in proportion to the means of the parents, as soon as they are old enough to know the value of money?

An allowance is the best safeguard against the habit of extravagance, if a child is taught to spend the money judiciously and to keep a strict account of all expenditures. It is absurd to think that a boy is not capable of buying his own neckties or a girl her handkerchiefs. What if they do make mistakes? They can be taught to profit by them and they must learn to rely upon themselves sooner or later. Children like to be trusted and will seldom betray confidence, and there is not a better way than this to teach them the value of money.

LOWELL MEN AT HEARING

U. S. Engineer Takes Request of City of Lawrence on Bridge Matter Under Advisement

BOSTON, June 17.—A hearing on the petition of the Lawrence Central bridge commission for permission to substitute an unreinforced concrete span in the new Central bridge instead of the steel operating draw originally provided for in the plans, was held in the U. S. engineers' office, room 1017, Barristers hall, Pemberton square, yesterday. Col. W. E. Craighill, president of the Lawrence Central bridge commission, after hearing arguments for and against the petition the matter was taken under ad-

DAUBERT GREATEST FIRST SACKER IN HISTORY OF GAME, SAYS ROBINSON

BROOKLYN, June 17.—Take your hat off to Jake Daubert. The Superbas' sterling first baseman. To him belongs much credit in keeping the Brooklyn team in the running since the start of the 1915 season. Not alone has Daubert played a great game at the initial station, but his batting has been sensational and has won many games with his big stick. In talking about Daubert, the other players of the team said: "I have seen a number of first sackers in my day, but never saw the equal of the Superbas' first baseman. He can do anything and do it well. Talk about Hal Chase in his best days! Why, Chase never saw a day that he compared with Daubert, and that is saying some. Chase is an individual star and always has been. Daubert is a team worker. It will be many years before we see his superior, if ever. He is worth $3,000 to the Brooklyn club." Photos show Daubert in the act of throwing

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

CRETONNES FOR SUMMER

"What a change!" exclaimed Marjorie as she came into her aunt's drawing room to find all the furniture covered with smart looking cretonne covers for the summer.

"Isn't it?" responded Marie. "Do you know, it seems ages since the serviceable and smart cretonnes were introduced for hangings, coverings for furniture and cushions, etc., yet it still holds its place among the newest of spring goods these days. The cretonne, of course, designs have changed somewhat; colors are brilliant, as usual; but among the newest are those with birds of gorgeous plumage on a background of black. Indeed, brilliant applies to most of the new cretonnes. They are vivid and still lovelier perfectly, making them an excellent choice for the hot suns of summer days."

"Small tables covered with cretonne, over which the useful glass is placed, will be sought for porch and living room for various uses: One that should appeal to the housewife who 'just loves a pretty bedroom,' is to change ordinary furnishings into things of beauty by covering chests, tables and so on with cretonne; the table with the glass top bringing an almost elegant air into the atmosphere."

"If woodwork and furniture are hopelessly faded and worn, a coat of light enamel with a light tracery of blue and pink or delicate green cretonne hangings, etc., to match with a charming scheme of one that might be termed dignified and depressing, as some rooms have a habit of being."

SPECIALTIES WERE WEAK

DECLINING TENDENCIES AT OUTSET—DEALINGS LIGHT IN FIRST HOUR—CLOSING STRONG

NEW YORK, June 16.—Declining tendencies were more marked during today's early trading, the acute Mexican situation and the rejection by the railroad brotherhoods of the proposals made by the general managers inducing further professional selling. Specialties were the weakest issues. Beet Sugar breaking over 2 points, with severe recessions in some of the metal group, including zinc shares. U. S. Steel was barely steady.

Dealings in the first hour were the lightest for that period in a fortnight, aggregating less than 100,000 shares, with increasing dullness toward noon. Prices stiffened, however, despite the restricted character of the trading. Reading, Crucible and Mexican Petroleum leading the more prominent stocks. Anglo-French lines continued heavy. Bonds were irregular.

Beet Sugar made up all its early losses in the afternoon and other specialties as well as minor rails were moderately higher, but trading in the more representative issues was almost at a complete standstill.

Lowest prices were made in the final hour. Reading and Steel leading the decline with greater weakness in specialties. The closing was heavy.

ALLIES EXAMINE NOTE

LONDON, June 16.—Sir Maurice de Bunsen, under-secretary of the foreign office and formerly British ambassador at Vienna, made the following statement to The Associated Press today, regarding the American note protesting against interference with neutral mails:

"The note is being examined by the British and French governments in consultation. The views of the French government have not yet been received in London, therefore it is impossible to make any public pronouncement upon the contents of the note."

CHIEF IRAN AND INDIAN VILLAGE

BUFFALO BILL SHOWS

THEY WILL APPEAR AT THE FAIR GROUNDS MONDAY—PARADE AND TWO PERFORMANCES

The circus grounds will be a busy place tomorrow. The Buffalo Bill-101 Ranch shows, concerning which a great deal of preliminary interest has been aroused, will reach the city at an early hour, and probably before the Sunday-morning sleepers are fairly awake the cars will be unloaded, and the long-horned horses, the buffaloes, the long-haired cowboys, the Mexicans, the soldiers and all the other interesting people associated with this typical western show will be established on the "lot," and preparations under way for entertaining the crowds that are invariably attracted by tent shows to this city of amusement.

Of course, there will be a big crowd on hand in the B. & M. yards to see the show unloaded and also to watch the erection of the arena and other tents, and to enjoy the sights and scenes incident to the establishing of the military and Indian camps. There are, it is announced, some 1,000 Indians in this show, and a huge congress, and they include representatives of the Brule, Ute, and Ogallala, Sioux, Crow, Blackfoot, Shoshone and other western tribes. The military and Indian camps are always the center of interest Sunday, an interest that is shared by the private tent of Buffalo Bill, which is always the center of the arrival day. There is the cowboy with his high-heeled, short-capped boots and fuzzy "chaps"; there is the cowboy with his special Sunday ranch costume; there is the Mexican with his inevitable sombrero; there is the Japanese cavalry man in the uniform of the Mikado's army; there is the military Arab, a fighter by instinct and choice; the Siberian Cossack, with his diminutive pony and high saddle—these and their counterparts, human and animal, duplicated, give life and color to the always animated picture.

There will be two performances. The afternoon performance begins at 2:15 and the night show at 8:15. Monday morning there will be a picturesque military and wild west parade, in which the buffaloes, the long-haired cowboys, the Mexicans, the soldiers and all the other interesting people associated with this typical western show will be established on the "lot," and preparations under way for entertaining the crowds that are invariably attracted by tent shows to this city of amusement.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"The Flying Torpedo," which will be seen at the B. F. Keith theatre for the first time today, is in every sense of the word, an unusual picture. It is unusual, first, because absolutely modern inventions are used to produce the story. It is unusual, second, because the story is well-told, one of modern war conditions. John Emerson, the noted actor, wrote the piece, and he plays the part of the story writer, who, by his clever wit, staved off a foreign invasion. The flying torpedo is an invention which, through magnetic attraction, is brought into the hands of the enemy. Being filled with a high explosive, the torpedo tears everything up that it strikes. The thrilling scenes on which successive torpedoes are sent hurtling into space, and among the best yet seen here.

"Police," the Essanay comedy with Charlie Chaplin feature, is one riot of laughter from start to finish. It could hardly be otherwise, when one considers that the acrobatic comedian plays the part of the best ever played in Chaplin. He is shown as a man just coming from the dance. A pretended reformer does his best to have Chaplin take up the straight and narrow path, and this the jolly fellow does for a time, until he finds out that the people in the business are no better than he. Skeptical about all reformers, Chaplin sets out to undo any previous efforts at burglary. His work with a pal is very funny, and it shows just how inept the two are. But they manage to get away with all that they can, and the police is the stinger. Outwitting the police is the story told in this film, and the inevitable Charlie always comes out on top. If you like Chaplin only slightly, you will roar at this picture, and if you like him much, as many thousands do, you will be in a roar. The best thing the little fellow has ever done.

The Hearst-Vitaphone is full of meat. It is, by all odds, the very best photographic account of current events ever seen in Lowell. It covers not only scenes from all parts of America, but reaches out to Europe and Asia, and places before the viewer the very cream of tomorrow.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening there will be presented more big features than have been given in many months. The leader will be the first half of the week, "The Chimes," a story of very direct heart interest, from the Vitaphone studios. The second is a Hepworth special, "The Chimes," and it is noted for superlatively beautiful photography. The third is "The Shop Nun," a two-part story from the Gaumont Co. This, too, is a wonderfully good story. And, in addition to these, there will be five shorter reels shown.

Beginning Monday, Miss Billie Burke in the fourth chapter of "Gloria's Romance" will be shown for the first half of the week. The chapter is called "The Social Vortex," and it shows "Gloria" fast falling into the trap that the adventurous Frenchman has laid for her. The other features for the first half of the week are "His Picture in the Papers," with Douglas Fairbanks in the leading role, and "The Little Lady of the Big House," with William S. Hart in "Between Men," and Chester Conklin in "Dizzy Heights and Daring Heights" will be featured.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
The beautiful and famous star, Edna Greville, will appear in the leading role of the six-act adaptation of F. Marion Crawford's immortal novel and play, "The White Sister," at the continuous Sunday concert at the Merrimack Square theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening. This is the same play which has contributed greatly to Miss Allen's enviable fame. In addition to

MANNING FAMILY MURDER CHARGE

Annual Meeting at Billerica—Mortgage is Burned

The burning of the mortgage on the property of the Manning manse in Billerica, one of the town's most historic landmarks, was a feature of the annual meeting of the Manning association held at the manse today. The association, which met for the first time since the death of the late Manning, held the annual meeting at the manse today. The association, which met for the first time since the death of the late Manning, held the annual meeting at the manse today.

Despite the weather, which made the traveling to the manse disagreeable, about 75 members were present at the meeting. These included President John L. Manning and family of Chicago, Vice-President Charles W. Manning and family of New York, and other members from Illinois, and all the New England states.

The election of officers, one of the principal matters before the meeting, resulted as follows: President, John L. Manning, Chicago; Vice-president, Charles W. Manning, New York; Secretary, William H. Manning, Somerville; and treasurer, Warren H. Manning, Billerica. Entertainment, refreshment and reception committees were appointed for the ensuing year.

At noon the members, who had arrived in automobiles and carriages throughout the forenoon, assembled in a huge waterproof canvas tent that had been erected on the ground to serve the dinner, and enjoyed a splendid meal to the accompaniment of the patter of rain on the top of the tent. The dinner was served, as last year, by the ladies of the Patten Circle, G.A.R., who have gained a well merited reputation in this line. Mrs. Mina Gardner was in charge. The clergymen of the town and others were present as guests.

Following the meal there were "after dinner" speeches by several of the officers and past officers of the association, who congratulated the members for turning out in spite of the unfavorable weather. Considering the distance from the car line, about two miles, the officers thought that the attendance was very good.

Remarks were then made about the financial condition of the association and the splendid work that has been accomplished preparatory to the burning of the mortgage. The members have worked diligently toward this end and now their hopes have become reality.

Special committees of 10 have been appointed to publish an endowment fund in the association and already the sum of $500 has been secured for this purpose. The members have all joined heartily in making this plan a success and it is believed that the sum will grow rapidly.

Numerous gifts were presented to the association by Edgar P. Dutton, having been bequeathed in the estate of Mr. Dutton's father, a former Schenectady physician. The remainder of the afternoon was spent by the members, most of whom met but once a year, mingling in the pleasant and renewing acquaintances. An interesting program was also furnished.

Democratic Convention Finished

Work by Adopting Platform

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION IN SESSION.

ST. LOUIS, June 17.—The democratic national convention finished its work yesterday by adopting the party platform exactly as approved by President Wilson and submitted by the resolutions committee. Including the plank on Americanism and that favoring woman suffrage, but not until the harmony of its three days' sessions had been disturbed with a row over the suffrage plank.

No voice was raised against the vigorous denunciations of the Americanism plank, but at one time it looked as if the suffrage plank had been lost. After Senator Walsh of Montana had told the convention that President Wilson himself considered it vital to party success, however, it was voted into the platform by a ballot of 88 1/2 to 13 1/2.

The entire platform then was adopted without roll-call.

As it went into the platform the suffrage plank stands:

"We favor the extension of the franchise to the women of this country, state by state, on the same terms as to the men."

The women suffrage leaders considered it a much more favorable declaration than they got from the republican convention at Chicago. They threw all their force behind it, and won the support of the administration leaders, who were found fighting for them when danger threatened.

Haggard and worn from an all-night session, the platform makers were not ready with their report until afternoon, when Senator Stone, sleepless for more than 30 hours, took the speakers' stand and explained that he was too tired to read the document, gave over this task to Senator Walsh of Montana and Senator Hollis of New Hampshire. They "spoiled" each other reading the long declaration.

The light on the suffrage plank was in the air. Everybody was keyed to it and when at the conclusion of the reading of the platform, Martin Lomasney of Boston, a delegate, claimed the attention of the chair, it was thought he was opening the fight and it was several minutes before the shouts of approval and cries of disapproval could be still sufficiently to hear that he wanted to put the convention on record as sympathizing with "the people of Ireland."

Minority Plank Offered

The real fight broke immediately after, however, when Gov. Ferguson of Texas, who headed the minority report against the administration plank, was given 39 minutes in which to present it.

Besides Gov. Ferguson, the report was signed by former Rep. Bartlett of Georgia, James R. Nugent of New Jersey, and Stephen B. Fleming of Fort Wayne, Ind.

The burden of Gov. Ferguson's argument was that suffrage, being purely a state rights question, the wording of the majority plank was a presumptuous recommendation to the states on how to conduct their elections.

Anti-suffrage delegates loudly challenged the speakers' argument. Ferguson's statements with cries of "That's not what he said" and "That's not fair!" Many delegates openly took the position that the question was becoming more confused by the manner of its presentation. Finally Senator Stone yielded to Senator Pittman of Nevada and the suffrage plank was dropped.

The crowd wanted to howl Pittman down and cried "Vote! Vote!"

JITNEY CASES IN COURT

Ten Found Guilty and Fined But Appealed—Other Cases Before Judge Enright

The legality of owners and operators of automobiles carrying passengers for hire locating their machines in Paige or Bridge streets will be ironed out by the superior court. Ten offenders appeared before Judge Enright in police court this morning and each was fined $5 after which Lawyer Daniel J. Donahue entered an appeal and the defendants were allowed to go on their personal recognizance.

For several months past owners of the so-called jitneys between this city and Lawrence have stopped their machines on Paige street and solicited passengers. On April 25th the municipal council passed an ordinance governing traffic and under that ordinance which went into effect on May 6th, but one permit was granted, that being given to Amos P. Best.

The operators of other machines who had been frequenting the place continued to stop their machines in Paige street in violation of the ordinance, it being decided that a test case was in order.

Ten operators were summoned into court, they being Emile Pelletier, Joseph Stuei, Lynwood D. Foster, Joseph Ralola, Roy L. Glines, Patrick Keegan, Charles A. Lefebvre, Henry H. Lamontagne, Mitty Hormonish and Louis M. Gebbe.

At the time the case first came before the court Lawyer Donahue argued that the municipal council had no right to issue a permit, that the right was vested in the police board and that all the rights of the police board related to licenses, according to the city charter, reverted to the license commission. Judge Enright took the matter under advisement and this morning when the defendants reappeared in court he said that under the law he would have to find the defendants guilty, stating that it was entirely a matter of law which should go to the upper court.

He then imposed a fine of $5 on each of the defendants and an appeal was taken, the ten defendants being allowed to go on their personal recognizance.

Just for Four Months
Napoleon Charest who tried to break into jail yesterday morning started on a four months' sentence at that place this afternoon. He was before the court during the early part of the week and given a chance to pay a fine, but instead of following the straight and narrow path he was so jubilant over his release that he started drinking again and yesterday morning between 2 and 4 o'clock climbed the steps of the jail and wanted to be put up for the night.

He was later turned over to the police and sent to the station where he was booked for drunkenness. His condition was such that the case was continued until this morning.

Despite the fact that it was his seventh appearance within a year he entered a plea of not guilty.

Patrolman James Burke said he arrested Charest in Thorndike street yesterday about 4:15 o'clock and that the man was drunk. The night attendant at the jail testified to Charest trying to break the door.

He later refused to go home, but Officer Kennedy said that the man was crazy drunk when taken into the patrol.

Charest was found guilty and sentenced to four months in jail.

Got into a Mixup
Edward M. Crowley and Frank Thomas were arrested in Bridge street yesterday by Patrolman John Swan.

THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1916, AT 3 P. M.
I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION THE REAL ESTATE OF OCEA A. SHAW, NO. 349 VARNUM AVENUE, LOWELL, MASS.

This property will be sold in three parcels. Lot 1 consists of 5 1/2 acres of land, more or less, that is situated on the southerly side of Varnum avenue, has 200 feet frontage on Varnum avenue and extends back to the boulevard with 200 feet frontage. This is a level piece of land, very fertile and has a heavy growth of grass now. This lot would make a splendid building site with plenty of land to build on.

Lot 2 consists of 50,000 square feet of land on the northerly side of Varnum avenue, with 100 feet frontage and 500 feet deep. This lot has a gentle slope to the south and is very fertile, with a heavy growth of grass that will cut two tons to the acre, a fine building spot. Come and look it over.

There is a large house on the lot, a 2 1/2-story house with a two-story ell that extends the entire length of the house with two back kitchens built on the rear, and about 14 acres of land. There are two tenements of six rooms each with bathroom and pantry and an unheated attic. There is an enclosed piazza or sun parlor, all steam heated, nearly every room has hardwood floors. Each tenement is entirely separate, electric and gas lights, city water, hot and cold water, heated by steam, has high-ceilinged, well lighted cellar, all cemented, and the building is in the best of repair inside and out. There are screens for the windows and doors, in fact there is nothing left undone.

Mayor James E. He also calls attention to the "public health" and "public streets" ordinances enacted by the city government and suggests that the most effective way to inspire respect for the law is to enforce it. U. S. TROOPS TO REMAIN IN MEXICO

Reports of Warning That Movement of American Troops Would Precipitate Hostilities Will Not Change Purpose of United States Government—United States Note to Be Dispatched Today

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Warning from Mexican commanders that any movement of American troops except in retirement toward the border would precipitate hostilities will not change the purpose of the United States government to keep its expedition in northern Mexico or prevent Gen. Pershing from taking any steps necessary to insure the safety of his own columns and deal with bandits threatening the border. No advance further south is contemplated and it is not believed here the Carranza forces are planning an immediate attack upon the present American forces.

The war department today was without advice from Gen. Pershing regarding the warning said to have been sent him by Gen. Trevino, the Carranza commander at Chihuahua, but Gen. Pershing reported the substance of a telephone conversation he had with Gen. Bell at El Paso, who stated it as a fact that such a warning had been given by Mexican officials. This is not regarded as confirmation of Chihuahua City press dispatches, saying the warning had been given on orders from Carranza himself. A direct report from Gen. Pershing was awaited.

TROOP OF THIRD CAVALRY ON HOT TRAIL OF BANDITS

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., June 17.—A troop of the Third Cavalry under Lieut. Newmans has struck a hot trail of Mexican bandits north of Brownsville. It was reported to army headquarters here today. The bandits are supposed to have been those who attacked United States soldiers near San Benito last night.

Reports that three bandits were killed in a fight with American troops ten miles east of San Benito last night were untrue, according to reports received here today. The Americans, however, believe they wounded several.

Details of the fight received here say that a detachment of the 26th United States Infantry were fired on from the brush by 25 or 30 bandits and returned the fire. After the first few volleys the Americans rushed the bandits who, scattered and escaped.

Capture of 170,000 Men Claimed by Petrograd—Germans Attack French Positions

There are no signs of a halt in the powerful Russian offensive in Volhynia, Galicia and Bukovina. The latest Austrian official statement tells of pressing hard against the Austrians the defeat of a cavalry force south of the Dniester in Galicia and the stopping of Russian efforts to cross the Stokhod and the Stryk. The Russians, however, are remaining on the aggressive, attacking all along the Volhynian front and pressing hard against the Austrian lines further to the south. PIANO RECITAL GIVEN

GOOD WORK OF THE PUPILS OF MRS. ANNA GOULD CARPENTER—PROGRAM OF EXERCISES

A delightful pianoforte recital was given Thursday evening by the pupils of Mrs. Anna Gould Carpenter at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gould in Dracut. There was a large attendance of parents and friends of the talented teacher and her pupils and all thoroughly enjoyed the evening's program. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Plants and palms were artistically arranged around the spacious rooms and the fact that many of the pupils were presented flowers, while Mrs. Carpenter also received two large bouquets, added much to the attractiveness of the scene.

The pupils acquitted themselves in a most creditable manner, and their work showed thorough training, reflecting credit on their teacher. Mrs. Carpenter gave three numbers, each in an artistic manner. "Rondo" sonata, by Beethoven, was perhaps her most pleasing contribution, as in this the master composer emphasized accent, brilliant shading and melody. Assisting in the piano were Miss Ethel Perkins, mezzo-soprano, and Norman R. Sherburne, tenor, and their contributions were well received.

Mrs. Carpenter was assisted during the evening in receiving by her sister, Mrs. John Smith. There were many present from out of town. The ushers were Raymond Sherburne and William Foss.

The program was as follows:

"Charm of Spring" (Reynolds), Mrs. A. M. Tyler; "March" (Nassau) Master George Leo Conley; "Under the Double Eagle" (Wagner), Miss Ruth Angelo Keenan; "Dance of the Ray-makers" (Wilson), Master William Grant Foss; "The Wayside Brook" (Smith), Miss Isabel Juliette McDonald; duet, "Romeo and Juliet" (Bellini), Master Lester A. Sherburne and Mrs. Carpenter; "Chapel in the Morning" (Wilson), Miss Helen Geraldine Conley; song, "The Message" (Mittendorf), Norman R. Sherburne; "Evening Bell" (Heine), Mrs. Louis Sarre; "Narcissus" (Nevin), Miss Bernice Marion Beane; duet, "Tancrède" (Rossini), Miss Ethel Dixon and Mrs. Carpenter; song, "I Hear You Calling Me" (Marshall), Norman R. Sherburne; "Shadows on the Water" (Louniey), Miss Katherine Ring McDonald; duet, "L'italiana in Algeri" (Rossini), Master Lester A. Sherburne and Mrs. Carpenter; "Polka de la Reine" (Raff), Miss Cecilia Ozell; "Moonlight Sonata" (Beethoven), Master Lester A. Sherburne; "Rondo" sonata, op. 33 (Beethoven), Mrs. Carpenter; song, duet, "I Know a Bank" (Horn), Miss Ethel Perkins and Norman R. Sherburne.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERTS SURPRISED

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Roberts were tendered a surprise at their home in Daniels street, last night by members of the Order of the Eastern Star. About 75 members of the order marched to the house and although their arrival was unexpected, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts proved equal to the occasion. Mrs. Maria Goff, worthy matron of Puritan chapter, brought Mr. and Mrs. Roberts a large bouquet of roses and the ladies sang songs on behalf of those present. The recipients, despite their surprise, responded in their usual pleasing manner, and after Mrs. Roberts had comfortably seated herself in the new chair, Mrs. Sarah Campbell read an original poem, and a delightful program of songs, stories and readings was enjoyed, followed by refreshments.

PIANO RECITAL

The pupils of Miss Loretta Mirault gave a delightful pianoforte recital in Kitten hall, Y.V.C.A., last night. There was a large attendance and the program, which included varied selections, was a fine musical treat. The different participants carried out their numbers in a very creditable manner. TWO BROTHERS DROWNED

NINE-YEAR-OLD BOY GAVE HIS LIFE IN VAIN EFFORT TO RESCUE SEVEN-YEAR-OLD BROTHER

PORTLAND, Me., June 17.—Nine-year-old Andrew Pellerine gave his life in a vain effort to rescue his 7-year-old brother Fred yesterday afternoon, when the two lads and a playmate were thrown into Back Bay pond from a boat.

The playmate was Harold West, 8, who was rescued with difficulty by an older brother, Clifford, after the latter had run over an eighth of a mile, leaped from a 12-foot embankment and swam 50 feet to where the little fellow was struggling to cling to the overturned boat.

The Pellerine boys and Harold West secured the boat which was owned by a neighbor and began to paddle about the pond, using a broomstick. They neared a sluiceway under the Grand Trunk road and before they realized it was swept beneath the bridge and into the larger section of the pond.

The younger Pellerine boy became frightened and began to scream. He stood up in the boat. His brother, to show that there was no danger began to rock the boat. This threw the little fellow into the water. Realizing the danger, Andrew plunged in after his brother, though neither could swim.

This action overturned the boat and threw the West boy into the water. The children began screaming and their shouts were taken up by two women who were on the shore. Clifford West, 19, who was some distance away, heard the screams and ran to the pond, not realizing that his brother was one of the victims.

He shed his clothing as he ran and without waiting leaped over the railroad embankment and swam to the lad. He placed the boy on the bottom of the craft and brought him to shore. The other lads were nowhere in sight. Later, when the tide receded, the bodies were recovered.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

THE DESERVED CROW

Once upon a time two families of blackbirds built their homes close together on the limb of a tall tree. They had seen a farmer planting some corn and they thought they would not have to look very far for food to feed their children. Each morning the two Mrs. Blackbirds would call to each other while the two Mr. Blackbirds went to get some breakfast.

One day one of them called to the other and said: "We have five of the cutest and littles blackbirds you ever saw," and the other answered and said: "Well, we have four blackbirds in our nest. Come over and see them." Each morning the two fathers would start out and hunt nice worms for their little birds and their mothers.

"One day, when they came home, the two wives were very much excited and began to twitter at the same time. "What do you think," they said, "a family of crows have just built a nest on the branch above us. What shall we do?"

You know that blackbirds and crows are not very friendly toward each other and don't often build their homes near one another.

In a few days the birds were used to seeing the crows fly back and forth and didn't mind them very much and one day when they heard a faint caw in the nest above they even flew up to see how many little crows there were. After that, the birds were quite friendly and when the little blackbirds began to try and fly after their family, Mrs. Crow seemed quite interested.

One morning, as Mrs. Blackbird was just taking a fat worm from Mr. Blackbird, plump, downy in the nest came one of the crows and landed close beside her. The bird was hurt and a little frightened and Mrs. Blackbird called and called to the nest above for the crows to come and get their child. But they didn't answer and as soon as she could Mrs. Blackbird flew and looked in the nest to see why they didn't come.

When she looked she saw that the nest was empty and although she waited as long as she dared no one came nor did ever come back for the little crow they had left behind. So Mr. and Mrs. Blackbird took the baby crow and brought it up with their family and when their children flew away the crow flew with them and lived with them ever after.

BOY SCOUTS' EXHIBITION REVOLUTION IN TEXAS

Interesting Folder Distributed by Fish and Game Commission at Harvard Stadium Today

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 17.—In connection with the exhibition to be given by the Boy Scouts of America in the Harvard Stadium today, the commission on fisheries and game for Massachusetts has prepared an exhibit of live fish and birds together with photographs and other specimens of an interesting nature chiefly for the instruction of the Boy Scouts themselves, and with the purpose of bringing to the attention of the public the close connection existing between the operation of the Scouts and the work of the fish and game department.

The commission has prepared for distribution to the Scouts a folder emphasizing certain essential points which they deem should be carefully observed, which contains the following suggestions:

Report all violations of the fish and game laws to the regular department commissioner in your district, or to the fish and game commission, state house, Boston. All reports will be considered strictly confidential.

Train yourself to observe conditions when passing through the woods. There is always something to learn. Be sure you will always be pleased to have a report of what you see.

Encourage your associates to "follow your lead" in observation and protection. Learn to identify the birds.

Feed the birds during the severe winter weather. We will be pleased to give directions and supply grain upon request.

Don't allow anyone to tamper with the nests, eggs or young of birds. Every bird saved is an asset to the community.

If you find any broken-up nests or young game birds in helpless condition, notify us at once.

Aid in every possible way to protect forest fires. The woods are invaluable as watersheds and their preservation is a necessity for future generations.

Don't build large fires. If you must have a fire, let it be a small one. Guard it carefully, and when through, see that it is thoroughly wet down or fanned. In some communities there are strict laws regarding the setting of fires in the woods, and you should make yourself acquainted with these requirements.

Should you discover a fire, notify the nearest town forest warden. Every acre burned over means that much less protection and feed for wild life.

Don't be careless with firearms. Never point a gun at a human being. Don't carry loaded weapons into a house, vehicle or boat. Failure to observe this may cause you life-long regret.

Don't shoot until you are sure of what you are shooting at. A moment's hesitation may save the life of your best friend.

Don't take small fish when angling. Let them have a chance to attain a reasonable size.

Don't keep on fishing just because the fish will bite. There are other people to consider.

We have great faith in the Boy Scouts, and we congratulate you on the thoroughness of your organization, and we are proud of the standards which you have set before the boys of all the world.

We wish you success in all your efforts.

Yours for more fish and more game.

Arthur L. Millett,

Negroes Seeking Independence and Complete Equality With Whites—Trains Blown Up

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 17.—Texas is represented as in the throes of a revolution led by negroes who are seeking independence and complete equality with the whites, according to a special despatch from Saltillo, Coahuila, published June 15, in an extra of "La Voz de la Patria" at Piedras Negras. Copies of the Mexican newspaper were received here today. The Saltillo despatch says the information was brought there by travelers from Laredo.

The revolution, who are in great numbers, have already blown up many trains and torn up great stretches of tracks," the despatch says.

SAFETY SNAPS—Two cups of maple sugar, one cup of sour cream, one teaspoon of soda, flour enough to make a stiff paste, one cup of butter, two eggs, two tablespoons ginger. Roll thin and bake quick. This way of making them is also good—One cup maple molasses, one teaspoon each soda and ginger, two-thirds cup of butter, mix hard and roll thin.

To make mock maple syrup, boil to a syrup of two cups granulated sugar, one of brown sugar, one-half cup of water and one teaspoon of lemon juice; when cool add one teaspoon vanilla and one-third cup of orange juice, lemon juice and vanilla gives a delicious flavor.

These stewed dates are fine—Soak dates over night, adding a pint of water, to a pound of dates, in the morning remove the dates, boil down the water, add a tablespoon of orange juice, and pour over the dates.

NO LONGER SOUGHT FOR BY MANAGERS—TOO MANY GOOD SOUTHPAW PITCHERS

Five years ago there was a wild scramble among major league managers for left-handed batters, this condition being brought about by the terrible hitting of Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins, Sam Rice, Larry Doyle, Jake Daubert and other left-handed batters. It was just a few years before this that the left-handed batter had two steps' advantage in getting to first base, and therefore got many hits on infield grounds.

Now, however, the left-handed batter has lost his advantage, and is no longer sought for by managers. The reason for this is that the left-handed batter has two steps' advantage in getting to first base, and therefore got many hits on infield grounds.

at Monterey and one of the two remaining American consuls in Mexico, accompanied by half a dozen other Americans arrived here today. He was reticent as to the object of his visit.

AMERICAN CONSULS

ORDERED TO LEAVE MEXICO

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 17.—The arrival at Laredo today of Philip Hanna, consul-general at Monterey developed the fact that the state department ordered both Hanna and J. H. Sullivan, consul at Saltillo, to the American side of the river.

The withdrawal of these two consular officers will leave the American government with no consular representatives at interior points in Mexico, except an agent at Mexico City.

REPORTED RAID DID NOT MATERIALIZE

LAREDO, Tex., June 17.—Dues probably to the vigilance of Texas Rangers and the military patrol, the reported raid by Mexican bandits at Saltillo, 25 miles northwest of here, early today did not materialize, according to reports to Gen. Mann, commanding the border patrol here.

Rangers and armed civilians added the military in guarding that part of the border where bandits were seen approaching last night.

There is an undercurrent of unrest, according to reliable reports here, among the Mexican civilians and soldiers in the territory between Monterey and Nuevo Laredo. It has become openly known that Carranza has given orders that if American soldiers enter those sections of Mexican territory not already occupied by Mexican troops it would be considered an act of war, and the Mexicans have orders to give battle.

FUNSTON NOTIFIED WAR

DEPARTMENT OF WARNING

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Gen. Funston advised the war department today that he was informed by Gen. Bell at El Paso, that Gen. Pershing had been ordered by Gen. Trevino, the Carranza commander at Chihuahua, that any movement of the American expedition to the south, west or east, would be a signal for an attack by the Mexican forces.

No word has come so far from Gen. Pershing himself, even before the arrival of Gen. Funston's message department officials were inclined to credit newspaper despatches telling of the Trevino warning. Preparations have been made for any eventuality, and Pershing is ready to deal with any force that may be sent against him. It is probable, however, that he will hold to his present lines, and make no move to precipitate hostilities.

Gen. Funston reported also that Maj. Gray of the 14th cavalry, commanding the two troops attacked by Mexicans at San Ignacio, had recently had returned from an effort to pick up the trail of the bandits. The cavalry rode some distance down the Mexican side of the river, crossed to the Mexican side and reported that a bandit mobilization was in progress, turned north again on the Mexican side for several miles and crossed into American territory without having encountered any outlaws or finding a trail.

Two additional prisoners were captured on the American side and the body of another dead Mexican was found in the brush near the scene of the attack.

Mr. Hughes told the newspapermen he had nothing to say on political affairs.

71 INDICTED FOR ARSON

DIST. ATTY. PELLETIER MAKES STATEMENT ON PREVALENCE OF INCENDIARY FIRES

BOSTON, June 17.—The grand jury, which for six months has given consideration to the prevalence of incendiary fires, adjourned today after authorizing a statement by Dist. Atty. Pelletier that "the many fires in and about this city have been started by comparatively few individuals, some of whom would appear to be in close touch, if not in absolute collusion."

Seventy-one indictments for arson or similar offenses were returned.

There have been some so-called professional independent insurance adjusters who knew, or ought to have known, that fraud was being perpetrated," the statement adds. "It would seem that a very small percentage of the fires was due to so-called 'firebugs' who want the excitement of watching a conflagration. On the other hand a very large number were due to the fact that there are men, who for a stated amount, will arrange and produce a fire in the most approved and scientific manner."

According to the statement, the main cause of arson, the statement recommended the cancellation of policies after suspicious fires and consideration of further safeguards by the legislature and the public.

TWO PERSONS DROWNED

Property Damage of $150,000 Caused by Overflow of River at Hornell, N. Y.

HORNELL, N. Y., June 17.—Two persons were drowned and property damage estimated at $150,000, was caused by the overflow of Canisteo river early today following a succession of cloudbursts within a radius of 20 miles of Hornell.

An automobile in which Mrs. John M. Saxton and her son were riding was overturned by a sudden rush of water from the overflowed creek and Mrs. Saxton was drowned. A house in which Peter Head and Levi Madison lived on the bank of Purdy creek, a tributary of the Canisteo, was carried away. Head was drowned but Madison was rescued four miles down stream. Mrs. Hugh Stephens, who also was caught in the flood and reported drowned, managed to keep afloat until she was carried into shallow water.

Maj. Gray reported he had received assurances of co-operation from Carranza military commanders across the line. The Mexican officers said they had captured 20 men believed to have been engaged in the attack on the American camp.

The American commander said he believed the band had been broken up and that no further activities were to be expected from that particular force.

REVIVAL OF BANDIT ACTIVITY ON BORDER

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., June 17.—Revival of bandit activity in the lower Rio Grande valley last night resulted in vigorous action by authorities which was interpreted today here as meaning a determined attempt to nip the periodical recurrence of outlawry in the bud by dealing with the marauders on American soil.

Soon after reports were received that bandits appeared near San Benito, several detachments of troops were sent to deal with them. Motor cars were commandeered in accordance with pre-arranged plans and two companies of the 26th infantry were detached from Harlingen to Olinita, ten miles north of Brownsville, with orders to cut off the bandits' retreat across the Rio Grande into Mexico.

Meanwhile, another force of two companies of infantry sent from San Benito earlier in the night to investigate reports that the Joe Scott ranch had been attacked, found their quarry ten miles east of San Benito.

LOWELL TRIMS WORCESTER

Zieser Pitches Lowell Team to Victory—Score 4 to 3—Lord and Kilhullen Batted Hard

Special to The Sun.
WORCESTER, June 17.—Harry Lord, who first broke into organized baseball under old Doctor Burkett, in these many years ago, led his hostess Lowell outfit onto the field at Boulevard park yesterday and got away with a 4 to 3 win. Matty Zieser, who celebrated the opening game of the season here a year ago by pitching a no-hit contest, officiated at the demise of the Boosters. However, it was no easy win for Zieser and up to the fatal eighth, when he pitched on the part of "Doc" Keegan, who was subbing center for Earl Potteiger, gave Joe Kilhullen an opportunity to crash through with a hit that scored two runs and won the game, Lowell was worried.

Worcester fans who have always held Lord in their hearts, gave him a hand each time he came to the plate. Whether it was generosity or encouragement or something, Lord responded with three smashing, clean-cut drives out of five times up. He also accepted his two chances in the field faultlessly, playing a nut by Zieser to perfection in the ninth.

However, Lord's crew was rather fortunate in getting away with the ball game. A steal which crossed up Keegan and Potteiger accounted for one run, and Keegan's failure to throw to third with an easy out in front of him paved the way for the winning runs as previously told.

Lord shot a single to center with one down for a starter, advanced on Briggs' out and scored when Barrows drove a clean-cut smash to the outfield. The visitors failed again in the second, when Kilhullen singled with two down and was helped around through Whalen's error, and a double steal which caught Keegan and Zieser talking over the political situation or something equally interesting, which kept their minds off second base.

Zieser crushed safely to center with one down and promptly stole second, it was one of his three thefts of the day. Tyler doubled to right center and Zieser scored easily. Gieffels, who is not hit, singled over the size of his collar, shot a single to center, and Tyler, who looked to be sent in to the plate by Hamilton, who was coaching at third, tried to score. He was out by a mile and a perfectly good chance to win a ball game was apparently lost in this crisis. McGinley was an easy one, Zieser to Kane. Worcester started proceedings in the fourth, when he was hit by a pitched ball, with two down, he pilfered second and promptly swung third. Potteiger had thrown of Tyler's ground-er let Zieser score.

Pat Maloney, and a pretty nice ball player, to have on a club, walloped a triple to left center in the fifth with one down. Keegan, with the Lowell infield on the grass, cut a single by Torphy, and Maloney scored. That ended the Worcester run-getting, but the count looked big until the eighth.

Lord started all the trouble with his third hit of the game, a hot grounder past Zieser. Briggs was thrown out, Gardella to Whalen, Lord taking second. Barrows, who twice lifted the ball over the right field fence here last year, got McGinley in a hole and was passed. Then Greenhalge dumped a puny Texas Leaguer in center. Potter, Keegan or Zieser could have handled the ball, but they let it drop, and it went for a hit, filling the bases as Keegan did not make the throw to third, where a force-out would have been easy.

With the Worcester infield drawn in, Stimpson hit by which under ordinary circumstances a shortstop could have taken care of, Maloney, leaving in, took the ball and retired his man, holding Lowell safe. However, Joe Kilhullen had a hit in his system, and his bullet-like drive to left accounted for two runs and the ball game.

The score:

ARE MAKING GOOD

Myers, Mulligan and Hornsby Showing Class in Big Show

Rodgers Hornsby, aged 20 (his mother had to sign his Cardinal contract to make it legal), is one of the baseball "finds" of years.

Hornsby dropped out of the clouds. He bobbed up last fall the bushiest busher that ever came out of the tall grass. Hornsby jumped from the side diamonds of Texas minor leagues to the beautiful turf carpeted infield. Quite a leap.

Robison field is the first big league ball yard Hornsby ever laid eyes on. Huggins sent him to short one Sunday. Twenty thousand fans were howling for the Cards to win.

"All this mob is for you, Hornsby, don't get scared," said Huggins to the young Texan.

"Never fear, boss; I'm up here to stay," replied Hornsby.

"That's the way I like to hear a young fellow talk," replied Huggins.

This spring Roy Corhan, promoted with a sore arm. Some people were unkind enough to hint that Roy was a prima donna and needed coaxing.

Hornsby started the campaign at short and went through the spring series like a cyclone. He hit and fielded like Wagner in his palmy days.

Hornsby's wonderful work, snarled Corhan as he never hustled before. California friends wrote Roy: "We thought you were slated to play short for the Cards, what's the matter? Who is this guy Hornsby?"

Hornsby continued going so well that Corhan was still on the bench when Zinn Beck hurt himself. That gave Roy the big chance. Hornsby was shifted to third, Corhan going to short.

Corhan is a more finished infielder than Hornsby, but he'll never hit like the Texan. Hornsby is a natural slugger, he picks the good corners and whines "no" to all corners of the lot.

Hornsby has "arrived." There isn't a chance of anybody supplanting him at third or short. He's a bear putting the ball on base runs at third.

MYERS A Real Find

Pitcher Myers of the Philadelphia Athletics is another big "find." Branch Rickey says Connie Mack dug up this "kid" in a high school five years ago.

"Myers was 16 years of age when he crossed Mack's path," said Rickey. "Connie urged him to stay in school and prepare for a college course."

"But I haven't got the money to go to college," said Myers.

"Never mind, I'll stake you," said Mack, handing over $200 and slugging the boy to an Athletic contract.

"I discovered Myers pitching great ball in some Pennsylvania 'prep' school and read after him."

"Too late," said Myers. "I'm under contract with the Athletics."

Mulligan Clever Youth

Eddie Mulligan of the Chicago Cubs is another "find." Roger Bresnahan found Mulligan in the Three-I league last fall. Mulligan comes from Waukegan, St. Louis. He was shortstopping in Davenport when Roger heard of him.

FOHL TAMING WILD MAN

SEVERAL MANAGERS HAVE ALREADY DECLARED LOWDERMILK CANNOT BE CALMED DOWN

Some pitchers need only a change of pace to make them wizards. Grover Cleveland Lowdermilk, the human sleet, doesn't require a change of pace to round out his repertoire; he needs a change in stride. Whether he lunges longer in the major leagues hinges upon his ability to stretch from an 18-inch to a three-foot stride in delivery in his future slab assignments for the Cleveland Indians.

Lee Fohl, master of the Indians, is grooming the foot-6-inch finger whirler into a complete pitcher. Oscar Stange, Sam Agnew, Branch Rickey and Billy Sullivan called untamable Fohl says Grover can be converted into a wonder pitcher—If Grover ever attains control. Every one else in the major leagues agrees with Fohl.

Lowdermilk granted 157 bases on balls in 1915. Detroit took him from the St. Louis Browns, and Billy Sullivan worked with the erratic fellow throughout the spring training trip without results. In one game for Detroit, Lowdermilk pitched to just three batters. Each drew a walk.

Cleveland purchased the luckless hurler that night at the waiver price. He started a game in St. Louis, walked seven and hit one in three innings. His speed, however, was terrific and the Browns who didn't walk were unable to touch his delivery, one of the two runs scored blossoming from an error.

Fohl studied the wild man. He noticed Lowdermilk, 6 feet, 6 inches on the hoof, was taking a stride of only eighteen inches in pitching.

"A tall man like you ought to take a stride of three feet when he lets the ball go," said Fohl. "When you take a shorter stride you pitch unnaturally. Lowdermilk has practiced an hour daily since his delivery. It was not easy to change a style he has been following nine years; but he is gradually learning to and Fohl is confident that he is going to disprove the old saying, 'You can't teach an old dog new tricks.'"

LOWELL EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

Lowell played good ball yesterday. It's good to see Barrows and Lord slugging the ball again. Kilhullen is doing his share also.

Greenhalge covered second base well and came through with a hit that helped score the winning run.

If Paddy Green would show the same form Zieser and Lohman Harry Lord could stop worrying about his pitching staff.

Judging from the batting averages of Kane and Briggs the sooner Clarence Parker arrives, the better. Stimpson, Barrows and Parker would comprise a classy outfield.

The playing of the Lowell team surprised Worcester fans, many of whom thought that Billy Hamilton would have a snap taking all the games in the series.

Earl Stimpson is playing a steady game in left field and his batting is improving. Stimpson is a hard worker and makes a valuable man on the team.

Fewster, the Worcester second baseman, is some speed boy. He purloined three sacks yesterday.

Lowell will be home four days and away two next week. Billy Hamilton of Worcester will be here Monday and Tuesday; New Haven is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday and Lowell goes to Bridgeport for Friday and Saturday.

In the Worcester lineup Monday there will probably be two former Lowell outfielders, Jimmy Magee and "Dutch" Potteiger. Fred Tyler, brother of George Tyler, is Hamilton's regular backstop.

Rube Bressler, Connie Mack's former star, was outpitched by Mulrennan of Bridgeport. Though Rube is pitching good ball he is not finding the Eastern League pace any too easy.

Manager Heinie Wagner is back in the game for Hartford. Heinie is playing the pivot sack and George Spires has been shifted to third. George has drawn his release. With Holmes, Wagner, Spires and Nye, the Hartford infield doesn't look so bad.

The rain this morning was another blow to the Eastern League. Lynn was scheduled to play morning and afternoon games on the occasion of Parker Hill day, and the owners anticipated large crowds. Lowell and Worcester were to meet in a double bill in Worcester and other important games were on the schedule. Even if the rain should cease and allow the games to be called, the attendance will be greatly reduced by the threatening weather.

SALLEE IS SUSPENDED

STAR ST. LOUIS PITCHER TEARS UP CONTRACT AND IS GIVEN REST BY HUGGINS

NEW YORK, June 17.—Harry Sallee, star pitcher of the St. Louis National league club, was indefinitely suspended today by Manager Huggins of the club as the result of an altercation between the manager and the player last night. Sallee tore up his contract during the argument, Huggins said, and left the city.

"Sallee has been disgruntled and dissatisfied for some time," Huggins said. "He had not broken training, however. There have been rumors for some time that he was to be purchased by the New York Giants, and these reports added to his dissatisfaction with the St. Louis club. There was no foundation for the reports, as the New York club does not tamper with player. There is no deal on in which Sallee is involved, and he will not be sold or traded to any club."

DIAMOND DAZZLES

Red Wolfgang pitched two innings against the Red Sox and didn't allow a hit but had to give way in the seventh stanza to a pinch hitter.

Tom Hughes, the Braves lucky

Albert Nebes, Lowell's premier skater, is racing the race of his life at "The Rollaway" this week against Willie Blackburn of Chicago for the championship and a purse of $200. Nebes had beaten Blackburn in three starts last week but last night in a 10 mile hard fought race the Lowell boy was obliged to acknowledge defeat owing to a very unfortunate fall in the 23d lap of the 10th mile. The crowd went frantic when their favorite fell. Two ladies fainted owing to the excitement and the wild cheering could be heard blocks away. The time was the fastest ever recorded here for the distance, 35 minutes, 2 seconds and the judges gave Blackburn a 24 lap win.

Two important college games were played yesterday. Harvard defeated Boston College by the score of 7 to 0. Tufts won a soft contest from Dartmouth, the final being 11 to 7.

Joe Jackson of the Chicago White Sox is slugging the ball for all it is worth these days. Triples and doubles are Joe's usual contributions. Yesterday he batted for 1000 with two doubles and a single in three times up.

EASTERN LEAGUE

Organization Will Continue Despite Heavy Losses by Owners

At a meeting of the Eastern league, held last evening in the Quincy house, Boston, it was voted to continue the organization on the 10-club plan that has been in force since the latter part of May. All clubs with the exception of New Haven, were represented. Mr. Andrew Roach was present in behalf of the Lowell club.

The question of dissolving the Eastern league and forming two more compact leagues was discussed, but voted down. It is said. But three of the team owners present were in favor of this proposition. The others, admitting that they were from $3000 to $5000 behind, laid the blame for the failure to the weather man and predicted a change for the better immediately.

A number of changes in the by-laws were made, including the following: Whenever any game of a double-header is forfeited by a visiting club the club shall forfeit $100 of the gate receipts and pay $100 fine to the home club.

A scheduled double-header shall require $150 guarantee except when played on Saturday, when the present guarantee of $200 shall apply.

The first game of a double-header shall be considered the regularly scheduled game and the second the postponed game.

Whenever it is impossible for a club to play off a postponed game in its home city the game can be transferred to the city of its opponent by agreement between the two clubs. This by-law resulted from the fact that Lawrence failed to appear owing to having missed train connections, was thrown out. The game will be played later as part of a double-header.

The decision of Vice President O'Neill upholding Empire Stadium in declaring the first game of a double-header between Bridgeport and Worcester on June 2 forfeited to Worcester was sustained by the directors and the Bridgeport club was fined $100.

It was stated that among the other matters discussed was the failure of the Lowell and the Lawrence clubs to file

Only seven regulars are hitting better than .300 in the American league and Burns of Detroit has edged into second place. Speaker still leads with .355 and is ahead in total bases with 105 and by runs scored with 43. The unusual sight of a catcher leading the league in stolen bases is shown with

FAMOUS AVIATOR KILLED

REPORT THAT CAPTAIN BOELKE, CHAMPION GERMAN AIRMAN, KILLED IN BATTLE

LONDON, June 17.—Capt. Boelke, the champion German aviator, who recently received an autograph letter from the emperor complimenting him on his success in bringing down French aeroplanes, is believed to have been killed in an aerial combat with the French aviator, Roger Ribiere. A machine painted yellow and of the type known to have been piloted by Boelke, who also wore a large yellow muffler, was shot down by Ribiere two days ago between the German and French trenches near Verdun.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S RECORD

Nothing will be more discussed in the months to come before the election of the next president than the record of President Wilson. It will be attacked by the republicans who will magnify anything that may give them a political argument and it will be put forward by the democrats as the firm rock on which the democratic party stands in its espousal of peace, preparedness and prosperity. It is a record of positive policies, of great magnitude, and the more the people of the United States examine it, the better for the standing of the democratic party.

The paramount issue in the present administration has been President Wilson's handling of America's foreign policies. It is too much to expect that everything he has done should have attracted the support of all the people in this land of myriad races and conflicting currents, but who is there who can truthfully state that President Wilson has failed? Has he not wrung every concession demanded from Germany? Has he passively concurred in any effort to American prestige or injury to American interests, whether at the hands of the allies or the central powers? No! Vigilant, patient, calmly deliberative, he has protested and demanded in turn, and he has won the greatest diplomatic victories won by any ruler since the war started. President Wilson has brought the most arrogant government in the world to terms, but we hear that he failed to satisfy the republican party. To be sure he stopped on the threshold of war—but the people did not urge him to step over—and the people still are for peace as surely as they are for prosperity.

Again, take the case of Mexico! Will the republican party be more specific in its accusations or its suggestions? They do not approve of the present policy, they say, but what is the alternative? Either the troops must be withdrawn or we shall have to declare war on Mexico, with the prospect of a long struggle that would be against American traditions and ideals since the time of Washington. President Wilson gave Mexico every chance to work out its own salvation, and when he found it necessary to send troops over the border it was not for the subjugation of another power but for the protection of American interests. Was that contrary to any American doctrine or principle?

Preparedness is to be made an issue, we hear. So much the better for President Wilson. Senator Lodge after a conference with Roosevelt advocated an army of 350,000 men. The army bill of the democratic reorganization calls for 211,000 men. This leaves no room for an issue. Secretary Daniels it is who established the naval consulting board of inventors and scientists headed by Thomas A. Edison, and the naval bill of the administration calls for an appropriation of $241,000,000—an increase of $91,000,000 over last year's appropriation. Never before was there such a measure for naval reorganization, and so far as being out of sympathy with the movement President Wilson once declared for the greatest navy in the world. The republicans at that time accused him of being too militaristic, but now they have changed their tune.

Is there any fault with the present condition of the country? True, the prosperity comes at a most inopportune time, for we have been told in season and out of season that prosperity comes only with a republican president. Yet, we have passed through the world's greatest crisis, and we are pretty well off. Far from endangering this prosperity President Wilson has come out in favor of scientific tariff revision and he has striven untiringly for the extension of America's foreign trade. His efforts for a restored merchant marine are too well known to need recounting. For three years, America has been able to meet every emergency and the federal reserve act has proved the greatest piece of legislation in the memory of Americans now living.

President Wilson's record is an open book. All Americans know him to be a man who has given the American people of his best and who has put through a tremendous program of reform without causing panic, uncertainty or loss of prestige in the world. It is easy enough to find fault, as it was in the days of Abraham Lincoln, but like Lincoln, President Wilson has borne a nation's burdens uncomplainingly, and he is the man of all men to stand at the helm of the American ship of state when the war is over and we face a new era of reorganization and national opportunity.

AMERICA IN COMMERCE

Not in a narrow partisan sense but in the broadest patriotic sense will most Americans rejoice at the extraordinary growth in American commerce abroad, the figures of which are too immense to be realized. This phenomenal growth has increased consistently since the war made us the world's greatest source of supply but the ending of the war will not mean its curtailment to any appreciable extent. To offset the loss of so-called war orders shall come in requisitions from ports now closed to us, and the American manufacturer, exporter and business man generally will have learned how to compete more successfully with the great powers that shall be surviving to alone for war's losses through commercial prosperity. In no department of this government is there more intelligent understanding of the needs of the time than in the department of commerce which is applying scientific and efficient methods to the promotion of American trade and commerce throughout the world. At the present time groups of the belligerents are combining to secure tariff concessions and other mutual advantages that shall permit them to play into each other's hands in a business sense, but the United States is not neglecting its opportunities. In South America, in the Orient and in all parts of the world corps of trained workers are advancing America's claims to business consideration, and the advantages of recent congressional legislation are being seized so that this country may advance and prosper until it takes and holds the leading place in world trade.

BRYAN CAME BACK

No more startling piece of news came out of the democratic convention than the news that William Jennings Bryan had come out in strong support of President Wilson. Defeated as a delegate in his own state, the peerless one was there in the capacity of a newspaper reporter, but his silent influence was potent in the convention. Insistent demands for a speech were finally effective and the man who had given up the most important place in the cabinet at a critical period in the nation's history reaffirmed his loyalty to the chief he had deserted. Bryan was expected by many to make trouble, but instead he made sentiment for the president who was chosen by acclamation. It was a creditable speech—credible to Bryan and to the man he supported, and it went a good way to restore to Bryan the confidence that he had forfeited by his vagaries of the last year. One can scarcely write or talk about the episode without recalling a somewhat similar occasion when a factionist in another party made a split that time has not yet fully healed. Bryan chose the better way. Realizing that his difference with President Wilson was personal and not a difference of principle, he humbled himself before the convention and was exalted before the country. The American people had begun to lose patience with Bryan, but should he keep up the good work so well begun he bids fair to regain the strong position he once held in the leadership of the democratic party.

ACTION ON BRIDGE

The plea advanced last year to explain delay on the erection of a new bridge at Pawtucketville was that the great rains had made the river so high that construction could not be started. We are having correspondingly heavy rains this year but the indications are that some action will be started on the bridge without further delay. A few days ago the council awarded the contract and seized land for approaches. So far so good! Not only Pawtucketville but all Lowell will welcome the first step in actual construction as the beginning of a needed improvement and the end of a period of bungling uncertainty—though this council lost little time other than that consumed by the undoing of past mistakes and blunders. The story of negotiations with regard to the new bridge since the beginning of the agitation would serve as a splendid object lesson for officials in the future when confronted with some pressing municipal emergency. Therein they might find some promptings in what to do, but they should surely find many examples of what not to do.

ANYONE BUT WILSON

It must be a little humiliating for some of our eminently respectable papers to find themselves, in their foolish antipathy to President Wilson, lined up with the most bitter and despicable papers of a yellow, propagandist press. When there was a little glimmer of hope that Roosevelt might be nominated some of these hoisted his stocks tirelessly. They even accused Hughes of being the choice of the "hyphens" and some, not a thousand miles away, shivered editorially at the icy prospect of Hughes and Fairbanks. Now all is changed. Their true slogan has been "Anybody but Wilson," and they are preparing to swallow the icy combination with very good grace indeed. Mr. Hughes is about the same just now as he was a few weeks ago and the papers that line up behind him in abject humility, forgetful of past opposition, are neither sincere nor consistent. If newspaper readers as a class had good memories, some papers would never be done explaining why they flip with such agility at short notice.

COLLEGE LAWLESSNESS

Is it chance, good fortune, or a real change in student ethics that has kept college frolics out of the press for many months? The student "accidentally" killed at periodic intervals has not pointed a moral for a long time, but undoubtedly groups of irresponsible young hopefuls still go on a rampage at all our institutions of advanced learning. Indications of a better spirit among the colleges are rife, and there is hope of a permanent improvement that shall not only react on college life but that shall be a lasting benefit to college students. The official student paper of the University of Wisconsin came out recently in condemnation of recent excesses and advocated that the offenders should be punished according to law. One sentence from an editorial is worth remembering. It says truthfully: "Students, even though only a small minority, must learn that law and common decency reign in this twentieth century."

SEEN AND HEARD

The world is full of men who have quit steady jobs to search for buried treasure.

Any tailor can put two hip pockets in a pair of trousers, but no tailor can satisfactorily explain why he does it.

Young Jack had just returned from a painful interview with the minister, to whom he had said in reply to a question that there were 100 commandments. Upon meeting another lad on his way to the minister's he asked: "An if he asks you how many commandments there are, what will you say?" "Say?" queried the other lad. "Why, 10 of course."

Got In Rather Deep

During a social evening a lady in Brookline sang to her guests. Her voice was so pure and her knowledge of music so good that the guests turned to a meek looking little man sitting at her side and said: "How awful! Who can she be?" "That," replied the man addressed, "is my wife."

Owens a Wreck

Thousands have been attracted to Salisbury beach since last Thursday when the lumber schooner Virginia, loaded with cord wood, bound from Nova Scotia to Boston, was wrecked on Salisbury's sands about 200 yards from the shore. The boat is now high and dry on the shore, half of its cargo afloat in the hold and the other half scattered about the beach. The latest report, and it is from the captain on the wrecked schooner himself, is to the effect that the vessel was left off by the cargo and what was left was a Newburyport florist. When asked what he wanted the hulk for, he said: "Well, I have always wanted to own a wreck and now I have one all my very own."

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

"Will you explain how the groom should dress at an informal wedding?" asked Ned.

"If the groom does not care to wear the conventional outfit for mourning, a day or evening suit, he may wear a black business suit. With this suit should be worn a single or double-breasted vest of the same material as the suit or fancy vesting, four-in-hand tie, cane or moucha gloves, a derby and calf skin shoes," said his brother.

"I wish to announce my engagement. Can you tell me an original way of doing so?" pleaded Ethel.

"Entertain several of your most intimate friends at luncheon. During the meal have the doorman ring and let the maid bring in a telegram to the hostess. She should ask permission to open and read it. She should then read aloud the announcement of the engagement," advised her aunt.

"I am to visit at the home of a wealthy school friend. Will you give me a few suggestions as to table manners?" asked Susan.

"First, sit down from the left side of the chair and arise from the same side after the meal is finished. Sit erect; do not lean against the back of the chair, nor rest your arms or elbows on the table. Do not spread out the napkin to its full extent; leave it folded through the middle. As you are to be a guest for more than one meal, note the disposition of the napkin made by your hostess and follow her example. Never cut with the knife, but break it with the fork, using a fork if necessary," advised her elder sister.

"Where should a man walk when he is acting as an escort to two ladies to the theatre?" asked George.

"A man takes the outside of the walk. In escorting two ladies to the theatre he seats them together and sits nearest the end himself. Of course, this last must be modified according to circumstances, there may be some reason why he should sit between the ladies, but by taking the outside seat he prevents either of them from being inconvenienced by the occupant of an adjoining seat," advised father.

"How shall I introduce a lady and a gentleman? Whose name shall I mention first and should I ask if they wish to meet?" inquired Grace.

"There should be no reason why friends of yours should not meet," said her aunt.

"When introducing a lady and a gentleman, always remember to present the man to the lady. You may say, 'Miss Smith, may I introduce Mr. Blank?' or 'Mr. Blank, this is my friend, Mr. Blank.'" burgh, acting grand master. The convocation will close next Saturday.

After acting head of the order will be received at the railroad station by the grand commander of California and escorted to his hotel-headquarters through a double line of uniformed Sir Knights.

In commemoration of the centennial anniversary, a special devotional service has been arranged to be held during the week's meeting. The Very Eminent Sir Henry R. Freeman, grand prelate, of Troy, N. Y., has been elected to conduct this ceremonial.

The convening of the executive sessions of the grand encampment next Tuesday will be preceded by the Knights Templar parade, the impressive military spectacle held at each convocation. Floral and electrical parades, a "Rodeo" exhibition, competitive drills and athletic contests will be held during the week.

The month of this year is the third triennial convocation of the order to be held on the Pacific coast and the first in Los Angeles.

Practically all commanderies in the United States jurisdiction, including Alaska, Honolulu and the Philippines, will be represented. Representatives from the grand priories of Canada and Ireland and a Masonic delegation from Mexico were expected.

DELEGATES ARRIVE

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—Delegates from practically every commandery in the United States were here last night to attend the thirty-third triennial convocation and grand encampment of the Knights Templar of America, which opens tonight and continues until next Saturday. Delegates from Alaska, Honolulu and the Philippines, representatives of the grand priories of Canada and Ireland and a Masonic delegation from Mexico were expected.

The annual anniversary of the order also will be celebrated at this year's meeting.

The convention will be opened tonight with a formal reception to Sir Lee S. Smith, of Pittsburgh, acting grand master, who will be received by two solid lines of Sir Knights in full regalia.

The executive sessions of the grand encampment will be held in the Scottish rite cathedral, beginning next Tuesday.

Electric pageant, "The Plight of the Hours," a floral and allegorical parade, a "wild west" exhibition and an athletic carnival will be features of the entertainment program. In addition there will be the impressive Knight Templar parade and competitive drills for prizes valued at $12,500.

The drills and massed band concerts will be held in a large amphitheatre near the business section, which was erected for the occasion. The parade will pass through the enclosure, around which have been constructed railway tracks for the electrical floats. Four large distillators will throw many colored lights upon the passing night pageant.

SCENE OF SEA FIGHT

WAR GEOGRAPHY BULLETIN DEALS WITH SCENE OF GREATEST NAVAL BATTLE IN HISTORY

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 17.—The scene of the greatest naval battle in modern history is the subject of a war geography bulletin issued today by the National Geographic society from its Washington headquarters, which says: "When the high sea fleet of the German empire and the prize fighting ships of the nation which boasts the greatest naval strength in the world met at the epochal battle of the coast of Jutland on the last night of May a section of North sea waters was made famous for all time. The scene of this great struggle of steel leviathan is described in early despatches as lying 120 miles off the west coast of Hanshamburg. This point of called Cape Hertzberg, the point of arm land marks the beginning of that arm of the sea known as Skagerrack, which separates the southern end of Norway from the mainland portion of Denmark. At this point the breadth of Skagerrack is 50 miles, and its length to the Northeast is 150 miles. Together with the Kattegat and the sound it forms the connecting channel between the North and Baltic seas.

If the great clash occurred 120 miles directly west of Hanshamburg, the British and German warships now lie in many fathoms of water, a little more than 200 miles from the coast, and about 100 miles northeast of Yarmouth. It is in this latitude that the North sea floor begins to drop rapidly. The depth on the Dogger bank, 150 miles to the south, is not more than 10 fathoms, but as the coast of Norway is approached the soundings show a remarkable increase until the gulley of the Norwegian channel is reached, where the depth exceeds 400 fathoms.

"The scene of this great sea fight will recall to British minds the battle of Copenhagen, which occurred 200 miles in an air line southeast of Hanshamburg. It was in that conflict that the second in command, Nelson, then vice admiral, won added fame by disobeying the orders of his superior, Sir Hyde Parker. When the latter signalled to the hero of the battle of the Nile to withdraw, Nelson placed his telescope to his blind eye and remarked to his officers grouped about him, 'I can not see.'"

"Before the war these battle waters were the congregating place of the greatest fishing fleets in the world. In 1914 the catch in these waters reached the amazing total of a million and a quarter tons of fish, a quantity so vast that its significance can only be grasped by a mental picture of 30-foot trucks lined up in procession from New York to San Francisco, via New Orleans, each truck being loaded with two tons of sea food.

"With the payment of this vast annual toll, however, there seemed to be no diminution in the North sea's fish supply. England's share of this food before the war was 500,000 tons a year, or 22 pounds for every inhabitant of the British Isles.

"Of the North sea catch three-fifths of the total is herring, the fish whose spawning and feeding grounds have determined the location of cities, and in several instances appear to have involved the actual destiny of nations and the fate of their monarchs."

JOFFRE AND VON HINDENBURG

These Two Generals Have Won Successes Under Vastly Different Conditions

The striking thing in his character is just this admirable balance, typically French. His moral and intellectual qualities, his brains and his character, are in perfect equilibrium; and he is above all, and to the full extent of the words, what our 17th century called a "grand honnête homme." He is quite without ambition, utterly disinterested and without any desire for popularity or self-advertisement. His one dream, when he has beaten Germany and given back to France her former frontiers, with the place due to her among nations, is to retire to his little home in the Pyrenees and end his days in peace. Among the German generals who have been pitted against him none can for a moment be compared with him. Joffre won the victory of the Marne. Apart from their partial successes at the outset, the German generals who have fought in France have secured not one single victory.

Only one German general has to his credit certain really big successes; Marshal von Hindenburg has more than once terribly beaten the Russians. But if Hindenburg is compared to Joffre an impartial judgment must give the French general the palm. The Russian army, when it is opposed to the German army, is in many important respects in a condition of unquestionable inferiority. It has at its disposal only a very rudimentary system of railways, and the railway is of capital importance in modern war. The supply of ammunition has also, up to the present time, been utterly inadequate; and, owing to this double superiority, Hindenburg has been able securely and rapidly to concentrate his army corps against the Russians, and then to break through their lines, crushing them and inflicting heavy losses. Such considerations should never be left out of account in estimating his military merit.

Hindenburg, if I may use a French phrase, has always "played on velvet," whereas Joffre has had to deal at every point with an army much better organized and infinitely better prepared than the French army. This fact proportionately enhances the praise to which he is entitled.—Scribner's Magazine.

HIGH COST OF WIRE

WASHINGTON, June 17.—With bids for furnishing wire to the forest service recently advanced as far as possible, prices on wire equipment considerably increased, material curtailment of the program for telephone line construction on the national forests this summer is said to be in prospect. There are over 20,000 miles of telephone line on the national forests and approximately 2000 miles of new line are planned for the coming season. A certain amount of wire is required also for upkeep, since the lines are particularly subject to breakage from falling trees and similar causes. Every spring the forest rangers have to get the lines in order in preparation for the fire season and, although, to lessen the effects of accident, the wires are mostly strung on rubber insulators suspended from the trees, there are in the aggregate a large number of repairs to be made.

Notwithstanding the number of telephone lines already built, large areas are still without means of communication and consequently lacking in proper equipment for fire protection. Not

NEW WATER SUPPLY

EXHAUSTIVE STUDY OF WATER SUPPLY IN LAWRENCE WILL BE MADE

LAWRENCE, June 17.—With the renovations at the municipal filtration plant about to be started, which when completed will assure Lawrence of an adequate water supply for several years, the commission investigating the possibilities of increasing the city's water supply will now turn its attention to securing, if possible, a new source of supply other than the Merrimack river.

At a meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon it was decided to consult with several eminent water supply experts in relation to securing the services of a consulting engineer who will make an exhaustive study of the water situation in Lawrence and prepare a report upon the same.

Work on the construction of the new St. Louis church in West Sixth and Boiervet streets is progressing, but not as fast as the weather was favorable. The excavation is completed and work on the foundation has been started. The workmen have been handicapped to some extent by the rain during the past two or three weeks, but nevertheless they hustled along and managed to complete the excavation. Several men are now at work on cleaning the old bricks that were purchased from the Tremont & Suffolk and also from the demolishers on the high school site, to be used for backing purposes.

Plans for this year call for the erection of a basement only and the material to be used will be brick and cement. It is expected that the new church will be ready for occupancy some time in the fall or about Christmas.

Plans are being made for the erection of a score or more of new houses in South Lowell at close proximity to the new plant of the United States Cartridge Co. In order to be near the factory a number of employees of the shops have erected camps in which they expect to spend the summer with their families, but it is said that these shacks will soon be replaced by modern up-to-date dwelling houses. There is plenty of land in the district and an excellent opportunity for a live wire in the building line.

An eight-room house with modern equipment is being erected at 273 Rogers street, by the heirs of E. A. Smith. The building will be 25 by 30 feet and 2½ stories in height. A fireplace is to be built in the living room, and the cost of the building will be about $2800.

Jerome Gaudette has started work on the erection of a two-tenement house at 949-950 Lakeview avenue. The house will be 25 by 30 feet and two stories in height. Two large piazzas are to be placed on the building and each tenement will contain six rooms with pantry and bath. The cost will be about $3100.

Two cottages are now being constructed at 42 and 46 Pentucket avenue by C. Brooks Stevens. The building at No. 42 will have eight rooms with pantry and bath and will be 25 by 33½ feet. The other will also be of eight rooms with pantry and bath and the cost of both will be about $5500.

A two-tenement house and a cottage are being constructed by John S. Brodie at 175, 183 and 185 Powell street. The tenements in the two-apartment house will contain five rooms each with pantry and bath, while the cottage will have six rooms with pantry and bath. The cost of the two will be about $5200.

Guy F. Cochran has started work on the erection of an eight-room cottage with pantry and bath at 806 Stevens street. The dimensions of the building are 30 by 32 feet and the cost will be about $3000.

A $2200 house is being erected at 20 Hawthorne street by Vida S. Walker. The house will have five rooms, reception hall, sleeping porch, and pantry and bath. It will be of the semi-bungalow type.

Russell & French have started work on the erection of two cottages at 64 and 68 Temple street. Each house will have six rooms, hall, pantry and bath and both will cost $4000.

An eight-room house with pantry and bath is being erected at 74 Hoyt avenue by Charles F. Witham. The building will be 25 by 30 feet and the cost will be $2500.

Joseph A. Claus has started work on extensive alterations and changes to his property in Third street. The house, which now contains 10 rooms is being converted into a two-tenement dwelling at a cost of $1200.

A 16 by 25 feet addition is being built to the boiler plant of the Lowell Electric Light Corp. in Perry street.

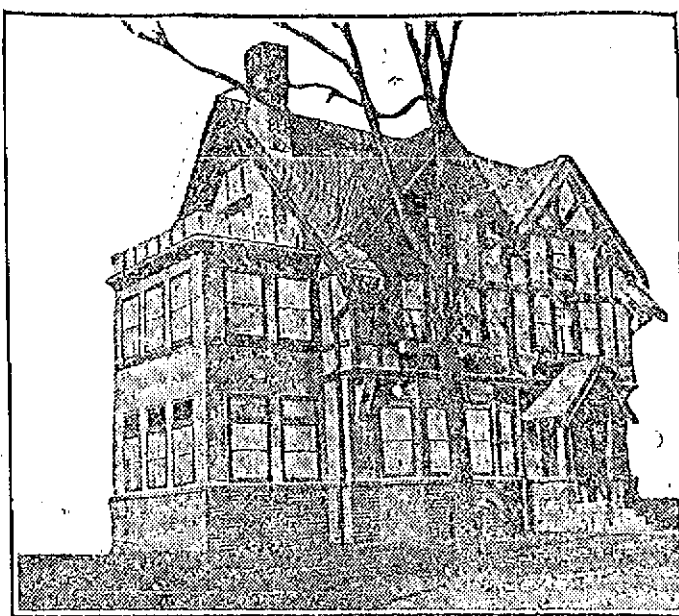

The Hamilton Mfr. Co. started work on the erection of a dust house in Jackson street. The building will be one story in height, 48 by 14 feet and will cost about $1500.

Francis Daigle is having a concrete garage constructed in the rear of his home, 77 Dalton street at a cost of $200.

An eight by twelve feet and one story addition is being erected to the property of Philip Gruber at 52 Corbett street. This will be used for a shed and pantry and it will cost about $200.

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the construction of the four-room addition to the Collinsville school and the members of the Dracut school board, which was held last night, the contract for the said addition was awarded to the Burton H. Wiggin Co. of this city, the bid of this firm being $14,185. The addition will be built on the front of the present building and the work will be pushed to a rapid completion. James Allen of Lawrence is the contractor.

Exactly at 7:40 o'clock, five minutes before the start of the parade the telephone rang and a voice said:

THE SPELLBINDER

A final word about Wednesday evening's parade.

Lowell's Preparedness parade was the greatest, in this country up to date, and probably the greatest that will be held in any city.

This fact is easily demonstrated by the statistical figures. In Lowell, assuming the population to be 110,000, which is more than the last census gave us, there were 15,000 people in line, or approximately one parader to every seven of the population.

Greater New York with a population of 5,000,480 had 150,000 persons in line, or approximately one parader for every 33 of the population.

Boston has a population of 725,323, and its Preparedness parade took the volunteers from all over the state, the total number being 42,000, or approximately one parader to every 17 of the population. Providence with a population of 247,560 had in the vicinity of 25,000.

Thus it will be seen that the outpouring of the people of Lowell in response to Mayor O'Donnell's call was the greatest, comparatively, that any city has as yet presented.

And with one in every seven parading, and the other six viewing them, together with several thousands from out of town, what were the results?

There were no fires.

There were no cases of picked pockets reported.

There were no cases of burglary or of house thievery reported.

There were, but three arrests for drunkenness throughout the day and evening.

And the parade didn't cost the city one dollar!

Surely Lowell is a safe, sane, moral, orderly and patriotic community, and what its citizens, daily or weekly, may say to the contrary, and the demonstration of Wednesday evening, emphatically gave the lie to the city's traducers.

Echoes of the Parade

Since the parade many have been heard from who state that they would have been glad to contribute to the fund to defray the expenses of the parade had anybody called upon them. There was no time to solicit funds. The fund was started by the mayor and members of the committee themselves, and announcement was made that Mr. Sawyer would be treasurer of the fund. It was estimated that about $500 would be necessary and that was all the committee desired to raise. Practically all of the subscriptions have been raised and the committee sent out collectors. The committee acted on the principle of "small favors thickly received; larger ones in proportion" and when a well known citizen after announcing that he would supply the women's division with a hat, the committee raised a modest fund by sending the committee $10, the contribution was accepted in lieu of the fund.

It takes an event like that of Wednesday to demonstrate clearly that they're not all dead yet; meaning

July 4th as the date of its Preparedness parade, and without attempting to disparage the down-river brethren, I venture the assertion that they'll have to go some to even approach the Lowell event.

Correcting a False Impression

"Geo. those telephone girls are dead slow," was frequently heard, when the break came in the parade. But it was not their fault. There was a slipup in giving them their instructions to start.

"No, the telephone girls are all right."

Just Plain "Me"

Once upon a time, so the story goes, an alleged croak was taken in by the local police for a petty larceny, but his actions indicated that he was a slick article and probably with a receipt, though none of the local men could identify him. As some of the headquarters men were discussing the capture, one of the real sleuths of the department entered, and upon learning of the arrest, went into the cell-captain to give the culprit the once over.

Returning to the office, the sleuth exclaimed, in very positive manner:

"That fellow is a stranger, superintendent; he's never been around Lowell."

"How do you know?" inquired the superintendent.

"Why, he doesn't know me," was the reply.

I recalled the story yesterday morning, upon reading the following from the Political Straws column of the Courier-Citizen:

"Hon. Eugene N. Foss, former governor of this state, met me just after the republicans had nominated Hughes and the progressives, Roosevelt, and said, 'The colonel will be wise not to accept. He cannot pull as many votes as he did four years ago. The public felt then that the republicans had ill-treated him and his vote was given on that issue.'

It was the same in my own case. As long as the public felt that I was abused, they elected me; and after that I lost my pull."

Generated "mego"? Perish the thought!

Hospital Rates Increased

The increase in the cost to the city of ward patients at St. John's hospital as announced in the press this week is not surprising, for it has been anticipated for some time, and cannot be considered unreasonable under the existing conditions. For some time past the city has been paying $10 per week for its cases in the Boston city hospital, and for the past two years the Worcester hospital has been charging $12 a week, having increased from $10. The minimum has been $7 per week but nearly all have put up their prices on account of the great increase in the price of drugs, medical and sick room supplies, to say nothing of the increase in the cost of food. It is probable that no line of business has felt the effect of war prices so keenly as the drug stores, and of course each hospital has a completely equipped drug store of its own. It would appear that the drugs and medicines that are most generally used are principally affected by the war. In some cases substitutes have appeared on the market, but even the prices of these are high proportionately.

A New Traffic Officer

Impressed by the need of a permanent traffic officer at the corner of Market and Central streets, Mayor O'Donnell has had the post filled and appointed John Whelan as being assigned to the position. For some time past the post has been open and different officers, including the sergeants

DAUBERT GREATEST FIRST SACKER IN HISTORY OF GAME, SAYS ROBINSON

BROOKLYN, June 17.—Take your hat off to Jake Daubert, the Superb star of the Brooklyn team in the running game since the start of the 1915 season. Not alone has Daubert played a great game at the initial station, but his batting has been sensational and has won many games with his big stick. In talking about Daubert the other day Manager Robinson said: "I have seen a number of first sackers in my day, but never one the equal of the man who holds down first for the Superbs. Daubert can do anything and do it well. Talk about Hal Chase in his heyday. Why, Chase never saw the day that he compared with Daubert, and that is saying some. Chase is an individual star and always has been. Daubert is a team worker. It will be many years before we see his superior, if ever. He is worth $50,000 to the Brooklyn club." Photo shows Daubert in the act of throwing the ball.

WOMAN CUT WITH RAZOR

Waitress Slashed and Man Fatally Wounded in Attempted Murder and Suicide

QUINCY, June 17.—Mrs. May Davis of New Haven, Conn., a waitress, was seriously cut with a razor and John J. Salvo, manager of a bowling alley, was probably fatally wounded today in what the police described as an attempt at murder and suicide. The woman told the authorities, the latter stated, that Salvo, who had been pursuing her, recently entered her apartment, attacked her without warning and then fled. He was found some distance from her a bullet wound in the head, according to physicians. The woman's face was mutilated.

SUFFRAGISTS' STRIKING TABLEAU TO IMPRESS ST. LOUIS DELEGATES

SUFFRAGE DEMONSTRATION IN ST. LOUIS

One of the most striking and interesting features of the woman suffrage demonstration in St. Louis during the democratic national convention was the tableau on the steps of the old Art museum at Nineteenth and Locust streets. Mrs. David O'Neil was Liberty in the tableau. A gray gown and carried a shield. On the lower steps were those who appeared in black gowns for those states where women have no vote at all. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, veteran suffrage leader, was conspicuous near the head of the staircase.

LATE WAR NEWS

000 men by the Russians since the inception of the offensive, is claimed by Petrograd, which declares that steady advances are being scored against the Austrian armies.

French positions in the Dead Man hill sector, northwest of Verdun, are again the object of German attacks. The only infantry movements that developed, however, were a hand grenade attack slightly to the west of the hill which the French repulsed and a similar attack on the Avocourt salient to the southwest, which also failed.

There is still pronounced activity on the Trentino front, where the Austrians and Italians are at grips but no advances of consequence on either side are claimed in the latest reports.

The British destroyer Eden sank as the result of a collision in the English channel. Three officers are missing.

New Italian Offensive

The Italians have opened a new offensive on the Dohardo plateau, but according to Vienna they have been unsuccessful in their efforts.

Rome claims the capture of Austrian positions in the Trentino between the Frenzela valley and Marcesina, near the Italia river.

German and Russian Clash

German troops under Gen. von Linington are engaged in the fighting in the Stokhod-Styr sector on the Russian front, Berlin announces today. Other German troops under Gen. Count von Bothmer are taking part in the battles north of Przemykloka.

RUSSIAN DESTROYER EDEN SUNK—31 OF CREW SAVED

LONDON, June 17, 11 a. m.—The British destroyer Eden has been sunk. Thirty-one members of the crew were saved. Three officers are missing.

The Eden was sunk in the English channel last night after a collision. This announcement was made this afternoon by the official press bureau.

The British destroyer Eden displaced 555 tons and carried a complement of seventy. She was built in 1903 and had a speed of 25 knots. The Eden carried four 3-inch guns and was equipped with two 18-inch torpedo tubes.

DULL SESSION TODAY

MEXICAN PETROLEUM WEAKEST STOCK-BONDS IRREGULAR—CLOSING HEAVY

NEW YORK, June 17.—Selling of the usual week-end character, induced in part by the crisis in Mexican affairs and the railway labor problem, characterized today's dull session. Mexican Petroleum was the weakest stock, declining almost three points with a full point for American Smelting.

Among the war issues Air Brake, Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel and Westinghouse declined 1 to 2 points with similar declines in motors and obscure mining shares. St. Paul, Reading, Lehigh Valley, Illinois Central and Seaboard Air Line averaged one point losses, with more moderate declines in United States Steel and the metal group. Shipping issues furnished almost the sole exception to the lowering trend, United Fruit gaining almost 3 points. The closing was heavy. Bonds were irregular.

CONG. DOREMUS BUSY

HEAD OF THE DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

REPRESENTATIVE DOREMUS

Election of the president, of course, occupies the major portion of the public mind, but the statesmen and politicians do not forget that an entire national house of representatives and thirty-three United States senators will be elected this fall. One of the most active men in the congressional campaign will be Representative Frank E. Doremus of Michigan, head of the democratic congressional campaign committee.

MRS. ASTOR ENGAGED

WIDOW OF COL. J. J. ASTOR AND WILLIAM K. DICK OF BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Brooklyn Eagle today announces the engagement of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, widow of Col. J. J. Astor, who lost his life on the steamer Titanic, to William K. Dick of Brooklyn. The wedding will take place at Bar Harbor, Me., on June 18. Mr. Dick is a sugar refiner.

Mrs. Astor, who was Medeline Talmadge, will by her marriage surrender the income of a trust fund of $5,000,000 bequeathed to her by Col. Astor in his will "for so long during her natural life as she shall remain his widow." The will provided that in the event of her re-marriage the fund should go to Col. Astor's son, W. Vincent Astor.

The Astor town house on Fifth avenue, New York, and its contents also were bequeathed to her under the same conditions.

Mr. Dick is understood to be very wealthy. His sister married a member of the Havemeyer family of sugar manufacturers.

A son, John Jacob Astor, was born to Mrs. Astor about four months after his father's death. The will provides outright for this expected heir a trust fund of $3,000,000.

DEMANDS OF ALLIES ON GREECE STRENGTHENED AND EXTENDED

ATHENS, June 15, via Paris, June 17.—The demands of the entente allies on Greece, it was learned here today, are being considerably strengthened as a result of the anti-entente demonstrations which broke out in Athens last Monday.

The demands were ready for presentation to the Greek government when the disorders occurred but the note probably will not be delivered until next week. Meanwhile the entente blockade against Greek ports is continuing in full force.

SECO VERDICT IN TOOTH CASE

BOSTON, June 17.—A verdict of $400 for Bertie Toy, the Hyde Park carpenter, who sues Dr. Albert L. MacIntosh, a dentist, for $10,000 damages, was yesterday returned by the Suffolk superior court jury which heard the case.

Dr. MacIntosh came to Toy's house by appointment Jan. 1, 1915, when Toy had a toothache, and extracted 21 of Toy's teeth, after either had been administered by another dentist. Toy alleged that one of the teeth went down his throat and lodged in his lung and that he lost his voice as a result.

Charlestown Has Big Celebration - Parade and Banquets

BOSTON, June 17.—Charlestown began the celebration of the 111th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill with two banquets last night, one at the Frothingham school, under the auspices of the Northern club, and the other at St. Mary's parish house on Winthrop street, held by the Holy Name society of the church.

As a climax to the celebration a parade was held this afternoon, starting at 2.30 at the corner of Bunker Hill and Elm streets.

The district was taken on a holiday appearance. Every public building, nearly every business house and many of the private residences are decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting. From most every house in the district the American flag has a prominent place.

Americanism was the keynote of the address of the speakers at the banquets of last night. America first, last and always was impressed upon the minds of the banqueters, and they arose to the occasion by cheering and applauding everything that pertained to American taste and interest.

ORPET MURDER TRIAL

18 YEAR OLD GIRLS WHO ATTENDED BIRTHDAY PARTY CALLED TO TESTIFY

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 17.—The state today brought 18 eighteen-year-old girls to court to impeach the testimony of Josephine Davis in the trial of Will H. Orpet, for the alleged murder of Marian Lambert. The girls had attended Marian's 18th birthday party on Feb. 6, three days before her death.

The first of the girls to take the stand, Bernice Wells, testified that Marian seemed happy at the party. She did not see her cry, as Miss Davis had testified.

A miss in blue came next. She smiled at Mr. Dady when he asked her name and responded that she was "Florence Russell."

She was 18 years old. The witness and two friends spent the night of the party with Marian. "Did you see Josephine Davis take Marian aside into a room?" asked Mr. Dady.

"No sir."

On cross-examination the witness said she and Marian went to bed about 11 p. m. and talked till 12.30, mostly about Orpet. But she recollected little about it.

"Did she say anything about Orpet's character, his temperament?" interrupted Mr. Dady.

"She said she had a bad temper and that Mr. Lambert had forbidden him to come to the house," answered Miss Russell.

Other witnesses testified as to Miss Lambert's demeanor shortly before her death.

BRIDGES CARRIED AWAY

CLOUDBURST AT NAPLES CAUSED DAMAGE TO PROPERTY ESTIMATED AT $75,000

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 17.—A cloudburst at Naples early today carried away five bridges, and damaged other property to the extent of $75,000.

DEATHS

CAMPBELL.—Mrs. Mary J. Campbell (nee Robinson) died this morning at the home of her son, John J. Campbell, 102 West 12th street, age 48 years. Mrs. Campbell was formerly of Somerville and came to Lowell to live with her son, her only survivor, about six years ago. The illness which resulted in her death was of long duration. Her son, John J. Campbell, at whose home she died, is connected with the local establishment of Mitchell the Tailor.

HARDWARE MEN ATTENDED

One of the most attractive features at the New England Hardware Dealers' association held at Mechanics Hall in Boston last week was that of the United States Cartridge Co. The exhibit was practically the same as was presented at the Industrial show held at the Casino in this city last fall.

An able demonstration was given by the National Lead Co.'s rapid firing squad, who sent a bullet perfectly satisfactorily through the wall.

Among the Lowell representatives present at the exposition were I. F. Munroe of the Adams Hardware Co., Samuel H. Thompson of the Thompson Hardware Co., Napoleon D. LaPlante of East Merrimack street and Edward F. Parkhurst of the Bartlett & Dow Co.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Very often the mother, bent on training her child in the very best way, overlooks what is right before her eyes in straining her vision into the distance. She looks to the future, forgetting that in the present she is laying the foundation for that future.

For instance, when her baby is still in her arms, she should begin to teach it good habits, for it is at this stage of life, before any counter-influences are at work, even those of personality, that things are learned with the greatest possible ease.

It is not fair to dandle and play with a baby continuously while it is small and light and easy to manage, and then suddenly expect it to manage without attentions. Just so in everything. Try not to form habits which are apt to be broken quickly or rather, always avoid sudden changes for the baby.

How often we lose our tempers and yet expect our children not to? Why is it we do not consider that a child is sometimes ignorant of wrong? Why is it that we do not look into the matter as to why a child did a certain act?

Never severely punish a child for doing a thing which he hasn't been told not to do. Study the disposition of your children as each requires a different handling. Explain a thing to a child and don't scold or slap and not be sure that they hear what you say. Keep their little minds occupied and give them something to do; something interesting; something they can accomplish.

Boys like saws, nails, hammer and some half-inch hammers. Some boys like to sew, piece blocks, embroidery and crochet. Girls like to cook and bake things, tiny buns, cakes, cookies and pies.

If it is necessary for a child to take a lunch to school, see that it is different each day as well as dainty and pleasing in appearance. Here are a few suggestions for luncheons: White bread with quince marmalade. Fifteen fibbers. One orange. Boston brown bread with pimento cheese. Ten dates stoned and rolled in sugar. Biscuits with sardines and lettuce. One frosted cup cake. White bread with chopped nuts. One cruller.

Eight small crisp crackers with peanut butter. Four stuffed prunes. Graham bread with cold chicken. Twelve English walnut meats. White bread with currant jelly. White grapes. Sandwich made with one slice of Graham and one slice of white bread spread with blackberry jelly. One apple. White bread with crisp bacon. One celery heart. Two chocolate marshmallows.

Graham biscuits with bits of cold thin-sliced steak. One one-half-inch chipped maple sugar. White bread with chopped eggs. Two big figs. Graham bread and lettuce sandwich. Twelve salted almonds. White bread with cold lamb. One banana. Rye flour.

It is a crime to willingly expose children to disease because of the belief that they will eventually fall a victim to it. The old idea that the diseases of children are doubly serious to an adult is untrue. An occasional mild case of disease in one instance may be responsible for a serious and fatal illness from this same disease if it is communicated to another.

Parents in particular will often assume the responsibility in exposing their own and other people's children which would make them shudder if they appreciated the true seriousness of it.

Measles, whooping cough and number of the common ailments of childhood are only looked upon as inevitable by people who are ignorant of the dangers of these diseases and the possibility of avoiding them.

Why should not boys and girls have their own allowance in proportion to the means of the parents, as soon as they are old enough to know the value of money?

An allowance is the best safeguard against the habit of extravagance. A child is taught to spend the money judiciously and to keep a strict account of all expenditures. It is absurd to think that a boy is not capable of buying his own neckties or a girl her handkerchiefs. What if they do make mistakes? They can be taught to profit by them and they must learn to rely upon themselves sooner or later. Children have to be trusted and will seldom betray confidence. There is not a better way than this to teach them the value of money.

LOWELL MEN AT HEARING

U. S. Engineer Takes Request of City of Lawrence on Bridge Matter Under Advisement

BOSTON, June 17.—A hearing on the petition of the Lawrence Central bridge commission for permission to substitute an unreinforced concrete span in the new Central bridge instead of the steel operating draw originally provided for in the plans, was held in the U. S. engineers office, room 1017, Bartlett's hall, Pemberton square, yesterday.

Col. W. E. Craighill presided. After hearing arguments for and against the petition the matter was taken under advisement and the decision will be announced later. Col. Craighill's staff was also present.

City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy, Consulting Engineer Benjamin H. Davis, Chairman John J. Donovan and Members John O. Battershill and Hon. Jos. J. Flynn of the Central bridge commission of Lawrence spoke in favor of the petition. President Martin and Secretary Murphy of Lowell board of trade and Cong. John Jacob Rogers spoke in opposition, but after hearing the arguments of City Solicitor Murphy of Lawrence they withdrew all opposition.

Engineer Davis was the first speaker and he outlined the bridge plans.

Col. Craighill then called upon the speakers who were opposed and the three Lowell men spoke. Their chief opposition was based on arguments as to its possible interference with the deep water navigation plans for the Merrimack river.

City Solicitor Murphy was then called upon and he gave a lengthy and forceful argument in favor of the petition. He said that it was in accordance with the wishes of the people of Lawrence and had the endorsement of the mayor and city government. City Solicitor Murphy also said that in addition having been endorsed by the Central bridge commission and Massachusetts harbor and public lands commission was also approved by an act of the legislature. He offset the arguments of the opposition by stating that Lawrence has agreed to replace the concrete span with a steel draw any time that it is necessary and is requested. He also pointed out the unnecessary and burdensome expense of having to draw machinery in the bridge when might not be used for years. He also said that if the opposition were to take the case to court it might cause dissatisfaction among the friends of the Merrimack river navigation scheme outside of Lowell. In closing he informed Col. Craighill that he spoke at the meeting not only for the Central bridge commission but also on the part of Mr. Huley and members of the Lawrence city government, who were unable to be present, also that of the chamber of commerce.

President Martin of the Lowell board of trade made a short statement, saying that after they had listened to Mr. Murphy's arguments the Lowell men desired to uphold the Lowell position; also that they did not wish to be recorded as opposing the petition.

Chairman Donovan and Member Battershill and Flynn of the Central bridge commission also spoke in favor of the petition.

The Central bridge plans were presented at the meeting and were gone into thoroughly.

Engineer Cortwright and representatives of the Essex company were also present at the meeting.

DOLCE FAR NIENTE

A negligee should mean comfort and beauty. This one is developed in pale pink silk blocked with satin in a generous tone. Buttery soft and back and a front drape held by a rosette of white material are the individual features.
